DON'T BLAME KILLERS WHILE WE LEGALIZE WAR!

By DUNCAN E. CLARK

AS A POLITICAL weapon assassination is worse than useless, just as war itself, or lynching or any resort to violence is more than stupid. The tyrant may be removed by the assassin's bullet, but the tyranny still lives, usually in a more virulent and senseless manner. Civilized society is based on orderly processes of law, or it is nothing. Those who condone and connive at violence in one instance can not reasonably condemn it in other instances. Those who put their trust in military and naval forces, in bombing planes and the death-dealing machines, have no right to be surprised at the outcroppings of violence throughout the body politic.

THE ASSASSINATION of Huey Long must be condemned from every point of view. His worst political opponents, entrenched privilege which quivered in his vocal blasts, the supporters of free government who were alarmed at his flouting of representative action must resist to the uttermost this baleful tendency of violence.

Also, the immediate slaying of the assassin is along the same line. Nowhere does the law permit the shooting down of an unresisting criminal. McKinley's assassin was tried and executed in orderly procedure, thus upholding the sanctity of law. Likewise, the craven wretch who attempted the assassination of president-elect Roosevelt and actually killed Mayor Cermack of Chicago.

THE MUCH-ADVERTISED triumphs of federal agents in their war on gangland are not all gain. Shooting first and questioning afterwards is a reversal of justice that holds painful possibilities of perversion of law and order.

Assassination is always stupid and futile. The dagger of Brutus struck down the tyrant, but the death of Caesar plunged Rome into worse tyranny. Booth's bullet slew Lincoln and deluged the country with anarchy and chaos. The removal of the gentle McKinley ushered in the personal reign of Theodore Roosevelt, as the forerunner of present personal rule from the White House. Political assassination always recoils upon itself.

NONE CAN SAY what hopeless chaos will prevail in Louisiana now that the intelligent tyrant is gone. Many there be who have the ambition and the grasping for power which marked Huey Long. But few will show the shrewdness and intelligent control which he wielded. And, on the national plane, none can exert such a wholesome restraint on the extension of federal influence as did the much-lambasted Kingfish. The assassin's bullet will have profound effect on political deliberations next year. The parties and platforms of the coming campaign will be vitally affected because a madman saw fit to remove with violence one of the most colorful characters in recent public life.

Ickes-Hopkins Row Threatens Water Plans

RIFT HOLDING UP FINANCES OF PROJECT

Allotment Board May Not Meet Until Two Settle Trouble

DEADLINE IS OCT. 12

Roosevelt Will Act as Peacemaker; Ickes in Favor of Big Jobs

Will the federal allotment board at Washington meet to pass on Orange county's application for aid on its water program before Secretary Ickes and Harry Hopkins, Works Progress administator settle their argument on public works policies?

Orange county would like to know, for it has called a $6,620,000 bond election for Oct. 4 to finance its share of the water program. Furthermore, President Roosevelt has said that the project must be launched by Oct. 12, if it is approved by the allotment board.

Some observers here were of the opinion today that the allotment board will not meet until Mr. Hopkins and Secretary Ickes make peace. Mr. Hopkins wants to supply jobs quickly to ease the relief load. Secretary Ickes wants to go ahead with large construction projects such as buildings and bridges.

Today President Roosevelt was scheduled to act as peacemaker between the two officials. Secretary Ickes, favoring the large projects, apparently represents what Orange county is most interested in, for its project is a large one.

LONG LIES IN STATE TODAY

Monuments of Political Reign Are Scenes of Senator's Rites

BATON ROUGE, L. A., Sept. 11. (AP)—Dynamic, fervid Huey P. Long, toppled from the peak of power by an assassin's bullet, lay still in death today amid the monuments of his lengthy political reign over Louisiana's affairs.

This stunned capital city, scene of his unprecedented rise to domination in an American state, of his legislative coups that made him a dictator, of his use of the militia to enforce his will, turned out to pay homage at his bier and give him a leader's burial.

Body in Rotunda

The rotunda of the ornate $5,000,000 state capitol, which he built to a height of 33 stories when governor, was chosen as the place for his body to lie in state, surrounded by a guard of honor of national guardsmen and 24 of his beloved Louisiana State university cadets, from 1 p. m. today until time for the funeral at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

He will be buried on the statehouse lawn, in the shadow of the capitol.

Services will be in charge of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, a leader in Senator Long's country-wide "Share - Our - Wealth" movement. The clergyman was close by when Dr. Carl A. Weiss, jr., Baton Rouge physician, mortally wounded the senator and was riddled with bullets by Long's bodyguards.

PROBE OF GALE DEATHS RAPPED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—Charging "gross negligence" in the handling of transient veterans caught in the Florida hurricane, James E. Van Zandt, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today labeled the official report of the tragedy a "whitewash."

The veterans' official issued a statement here calling on President Roosevelt to ignore the official report and take action against "officials guilty of negligence."

HOARE BACKS LEAGUE IN WAR TALK

England Wants Covenant Maintained, Sir Samuel Declares at Geneva

PUNISHMENT HINTED

Ethiopian Women Begin Mobilizing for War Alongside Men

GENEVA, Sept. 11. (AP)—Great Britain threw its whole weight behind the League of Nations' "covenant in its entirety" in a declaration of policy by Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign minister, before the league assembly today.

At the same time Sir Samuel warned the world that if the league fails to enforce a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute the "main bridge" binding England to the continent will have collapsed.

The bold pledge to back the covenant "in its entirety" was interpreted as an indication that Great Britain will not shrink from sanctions if these become necessary to quench the African blaze.

The Italian delegates immediately interpreted the speech as a British "threat to quit the league unless the league obeys England."

Even the phrase "British blackmail" was heard in Italian delegation circles.

Hoare's Speech Hailed

The delegates of small nations, however, generally hailed the British diplomat's speech with enthusiasm. Said one delegate: "It was not a historic speech, but the greatest speech ever delivered before the league by a British statesman."

What irritated the Italians particularly was a veiled attack by Hoare on the Fascist regime when, referring to the dangerous features of government propaganda, he said:

"Too often, artificial excitement of national feeling is made the excuse for the repudiation of obligations or for a threat of force."

Wants Covenant Kept

The British statesman declared Great Britain stands for the collective maintenance of the League of Nations covenant in its entirety and particularly for the steady, collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression. His statement was a clear allusion to the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Crowds which packed the galleries sat silently as Sir Samuel delivered what they interpreted as a friendly warning to Premier

Church, 50 Years Old, Has Its First Wedding

GREENWICH, Kan., Sept. 11. (AP)—For 50 years the Methodist Episcopal church has stood here, in active use. Sermons, baptisms and funerals all have had their day, but the aged edifice added an experience new in its career the other day. There was a wedding.

The principals in the first wedding at the church were Eldon M. Hagan and Effie Louise Borg of Greenwich.

Why the church has never been used for a wedding is beyond the understanding of residents of this community. Maybe no one ever thought of it, they say.

Business Men Backing Bond Issue for Schools

This is the architect's drawing depicting the general ground plan of the Santa Ana High school plant, that will be made a reality with the passage of the $180,000 bond issue which will be voted upon two weeks from tomorrow. In the foreground is the administration building containing the auditorium and several class rooms. Adjoining it on the right is a two-story class room building which will house the domestic arts and music departments. Immediately to the right of this group is a one-story building in which will be held the commercial science courses. To the left of the administration building is the new science building, and to the rear of the group is the shop building. In the background and to the left is the cafeteria building, and the girl's social building. In the center, near the top, can be seen the gymnasium and the football field. The girl's play field and the tennis courts fill out the plan.

FARLEY SAYS HE'LL STICK

'Story of Resignation Exaggerated,' States Democratic Chief

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 11. (AP)—Postmaster General Farley telephoned a denial here today of published reports that he was resigning in January to devote full time to chairmanship of the Democratic national committee, but the best minds hereabouts seemed to think he would eventually do that.

Fellow cabinet members and others in the high command have the belief that President Roosevelt will call upon Farley to direct the re-election campaign. They have the further belief that in this event Farley will relinquish his cabinet post.

Secretary Roper was an overnight caller. Frank C. Walker, New York, chairman of the national emergency council, comes today. Both have been mentioned as possible successors as postmaster general.

Talking over the telephone to newspapermen here, Farley said:

"Like Mark Twain said about reports of his death, the story of my resignation is slightly exaggerated. There is nothing to it. My resignation has never been seriously discussed. The time has not arrived for me even to discuss it. That is up to the President."

Committee of Five to Direct Campaign Seeking Approval of Election Sept. 26 of $180,000 Issue for New Buildings Here

(For Editorial Comment, See Page 12)

A GROUP of representative business men of Santa Ana, meeting last night at the board of education building, unanimously indorsed the high school building program and voted creation of a committee of five to conduct a campaign for passage of the $180,000 bond issue necessary to carry out the program.

M. B. Youel, chairman of the board of education's publicity committee, who is to name the five committee members, had not finished his selection late today. Action of the group followed a discussion of plans for the building project at the high school and Junior Lathrop Junior High school, led by members of the board and representatives of the schools.

Present Set-up Inadequate

In outlining the need for the continuation of the building project at the high school plant, Mr. Youel explained that the present set-up is inadequate. He said that at the time of the earthquake in March, 1933, there were sufficient accommodations to handle the number of students enrolled. However, the high school buildings suffered more damage than any of the other school buildings in the city, and it became necessary to close some of them, he said.

A reconstruction program was launched under provisions of the Green bill, and approximately $700,000 was spent in repairing Santa Ana schools. It was believed at that time, Mr. Youel said, that the high school plant could be completely rebuilt with the Green bill funds. Bids, however, ran higher than expected. He added that the Green bill does

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 11. (AP)—President Roosevelt and Father Charles E. Coughlin, the radio priest, had a talk here yesterday, it was learned today.

SNELL FLAYS ROOSEVELT

Constitutional Changes to Be New Deal Plank, Charges Senator

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—Rep. Snell of New York, house Republican leader, charged today that President Roosevelt forced "a mass of unconstitutional legislation" through the recent session of congress with the deliberate objective of building up a campaign issue of changing the Constitution.

That issue, he said, the Republicans welcome.

In an attack on the New Deal which appeared in today's final Congressional Record, Mr. Snell said administration officials and others close to the administration had revealed that the "unconstitutional" measures would give Mr. Roosevelt a chance to go to the country and say he had done his best to rectify alleged economic and social injustices but "that organized wealth, through

LAWYER HITS DRAWING AS IMPROPER

'Professional' Jurors in Group, Meyer Charges at Trial of Case

QUESTIONS MEMBERS

Judge, However, Rules Against Objections Attorney Entered

Superior Judge H. G. Ames, department 1, superior court, refused to disqualify the entire superior court jury panel today following charges by Attorney N. Meyer that it had been improperly drawn and included numerous "professional" jurors on the list.

Mr. Meyers, who is defending Frank Rosa and Faustino Saucida, charged with kidnaping and criminally assaulting Miss Mickey Dean, exploded a temporary bombshell in court this morning when he challenged the entire panel alleging that there were "professionals" on the jury; that jurors have no right to apply for appointment, and that the court has no right to select jurors by lot.

The charge of professionalism among jurors was revealed when he started questioning members of the panel as to how many times they have been called for jury duty. Several jurors testified that they had served in previous years.

Court Clerks Testify

Clyde Bruce, clerk in department 1, and Ed Kolbe, clerk in department 2, were put on the witness stand and questioned as to the method of preparing jury lists and selection of members of the panel.

The clerks testified that the panel of approximately 200 talesmen were drawn at the beginning of each year from a list of between 800 and 900 names. These names, they testified, were those of persons who had filed applications in the county clerk's office for inclusion in the list.

City to Have New 'Diving Board' for Marriage Leap

With approximately 50 ministers, representing every race and creed, living in Santa Ana, three superior court judges, a justice of the peace and a city judge always available, romantically inclined couples are being offered a new diving board from which they can leap into the sea of matrimony.

Earl C. Bloss, 209 East Washington street, has filed with County Clerk J. M. Backs a certificate of business for the Santa Ana Wedding Chapel. According to the certificate the purpose of the new venture is "conducting a wedding ceremony business."

Mr. Bloss declined to make a statement today other than that the chapel will not be ready to open before next week. It is understood that he has associated with him a Rev. Mr. Tate who will live at the Main street address. Mr. Bloss is a real estate salesman. Santa Ana long has been noted as a Gretna Green. It is the first county seat south of Los Angeles. Come on in; you're next.

UNCONQUERED ETHIOPIA

Ethiopia, "standing with one foot in the middle ages, the other in the League of Nations," as yet unconquered by white invaders, embraces what has been called the "finest piece of unappropriated real estate on the international horizon."

A series of five articles by Charles Norman, Associated Press staff writer, describes this tempting lure for conquest, tells of its rich farm and mineral resources, of its primitive warriors who eat raw meat and glory in battle, or a national history that is a chronicle of constant warfare.

GERMANS CHEER AS HITLER FLAYS WILSON'S 14 PEACE POINTS

'WE'LL LIVE IN PEACE,' SAYS DICTATOR

'Army Our Most Valued Possession,' States Nazi to Followers

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 11. (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler, in a proclamation read to the Nazi party convention, rapped President Wilson's famous 14 points today, and the delegates assembled from all Germany burst into a bedlam of applause.

"Where are the 14 points of Wilson and where is the world today?" asked Hitler. "The reich (Germany) is no longer a football and no longer an object of foreign maneuvering, but now is in security—in security not by pacts but by the real power of the nation and by the firm will of its leadership."

(President Wilson, early in 1918, offered to the world in general and to Germany in particular a program of 14 points which served as the basis for the final conclusion of peace ending the World war and for the eventual establishment of the League of Nations.)

"We Nazis intend to live in peace and quiet with our neighbors. It is not necessary for us to prove our security by any demonstrations. It is sufficient that we ourselves know it.

"We see in our army the protection for peaceful labor. And when we are forced to make sacrifices, then we will make them for our liberty and labor.

"This army is our most valued and proudest possession."

The Hitler proclamation stated that the Nazis had no desire to fight Christianity, adding: "But the National Socialist state will under no circumstances tolerate in any way 'round-about confessional politics; and on this let no one be deceived concerning the determination of the (Nazi) movement and the state."

Then Hitler warned:

"We have already fought clerical politics and run it out of the reichstag (parliament) after a long fight in which we had no government assistance but the other side had the advantage. But today we have this power of making our battle for these principles lighter. . . .

"We will never carry on this battle against Christianity as such or against the two confessions." (The Roman Catholic church and the Protestant confessional synod.)

"History will confirm that what the National Socialist party did in three short years was an enormous change which no one thought possible and which even today is not believed by various elements," his proclamation said.

not provide for construction of new buildings, but only for reconstruction.

Expect PWA Grant

Under the new plan, which calls for the expenditure of $328,000 for construction of three buildings at the high school and an auditorium at Lathrop Junior High school, the government would make an outright gift of $148,000 from Public Works administration funds. In order to receive the grant, the Santa Ana school district must vote $180,000 in bonds.

In making a general survey of the situation, Superintendent of Schools Frank Henderson said engineers who had studied the condition of the high school plant had agreed that repairs and reconstruction work would cost approximately 65 per cent of the total cost for new buildings. He said that even if reconstruction work were done, Santa Ana would still have obsolete buildings in its high school plant.

The Building Program

The program as outlined for the proposed building project includes construction of the following buildings: An auditorium at Julia Lathrop Junior High school with a total cost of $105,000; new shop buildings at the high school costing $68,000; a two-story classroom building at the high school costing $89,000, and a building to replace the old science building now located on the west side of the high school campus costing $66,000.

One significant fact was brought out in Mr. Henderson's discussion of the subject. He said that some community was going to get the $148,000 from the government for construction purposes, and whether Santa Ana benefits by the money, or some other community, taxes will remain the same. As a result of the grant of $148,000, Santa Ana would be getting a $328,000 project at an interest rate of only 2.04 per cent, he said.

Rolla Hays, board member, said he believed passage of the bonds would be wise from an economic standpoint, explaining that there is every indication Santa Ana's population is steadily increasing.

Stresses City's Pride

"Unless we build a bunch of shacks or tent houses to accommodate the students, we will soon find ourselves unable to handle the increasing load of students," Mr. Hays said. "From the standpoint of community pride, it would be unseemly to show out-of-town visitors a bunch of shacks at our high school plant. This building plan, presented to the citizens of Santa Ana, to my way of thinking, is the cheapest way out of a bad situation. It is good business, and I, for one, expect to see the bond election go over 100 per cent."

School Auditor Harold Yost explained that by voting bonds, the community bonded indebtedness would be approximately 2.07 per cent of the assessed valuation. The law allows an indebtedness of 5 per cent. In 1930, he said, Santa Ana had a bonded indebtedness of 4.04 per cent, and last year an indebtedness of 2.26 per cent.

Question of Room

George R. Wells, president of the school board, told those present that the board's application for the $148,000 federal grant was in good standing in Washington, and that he had every assurance the request would be granted. He further explained that the bond election itself is contingent upon the granting of the request. Then he raised the question of caring for the students if the bonds were turned down.

"The issue is not just a question of more bonds being voted, but is essentially, 'What is Santa Ana going to do with its boys and girls?' We are missing the whole point of the election when we see only that which concerns dollars and cents. If the bonds are turned down, and I do not believe that they will be, just what does the public expect of the board of education in making provisions for the care of its children?"

Those Present

Following are representatives of civic organizations in Santa Ana who were present at last night's conference: J. B. Casteix and Arthur Ekland, American Legion; Robert Fernandez, W. H. Spurgeon and Howard I. Wood, chamber of commerce; the Rev. Dr. George A. Warmer, ministerial association; Dr. Elliott Rowland, Lions club; J. P. Baumgartner, Kiwanis club; Phil Brown, Business Men's association; Mrs. Hazel Northcross, Business and Professional Women's club; John Newman, Twenty-Thirty club; Herbert Rankin, merchant's division of the chamber of commerce; Edward Hall, Breakfast club; T. ed by a committee of the legislature. This was the final day of a special legislative session called to act on bills presented to it at the senator's bidding before he was shot.

None but members of Senator Long's family and close friends were permitted to view the body before it was removed under a heavy guard of state police from a funeral home to the capitol.

Arrangements were in the hands of the senator's closest friends, headed by Governor Allen to whom the Long leaders have turned for temporary leadership in the crisis brought on by the assassination.

Pallbearers Named

The pallbearers will be Gov. O. K. Allen, Lieut. Gov. James A. Noe, Seymour Weiss, New Orleans; Robert S. Maestri, state commissioner of conservation; Allen S. Ellender, speaker of the house, and John B. Fournet, justice of the state supreme court.

In Washington Senators Caraway of Arkansas, Overton of Louisiana, Thomas of Oklahoma and Schall of Minnesota were named to represent their colleagues at the funeral. The flags on the national capitol and the senate and house buildings were lowered to half staff. They will fly there until the burial.

Hundreds of persons poured into Baton Rouge, taxing hotels and private dwellings to accommodate the throngs.

City in Flurry

The sense of shock that gripped the city on first news of the shooting and held it in somber silence after the death of Senator Long yesterday gave way today to a subdued flurry of speculation over what would become of the all-powerful Long state political machine.

Whether Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans, Long's bitterest political foe; the Square Deal association, anti-Long organization, with which his troops clashed on the streets of Baton Rouge last January, or others would come into power and break the Long machine, entered the speculation.

Guards to Go Free

The inquest called to establish the cause of Senator Long's death resulted in a verdict from the East Baton aRouge parish coroner's jury that he "came to his death from gunshot wounds of a homicidal character." The verdict did not fix responsibility for the act.

Inability to round up the bodyguards who pumped their guns into Dr. Weiss until they had riddled him with 61 bullet holes, forced postponement until next week of the inquest into the eye specialist's death. The general impression among officials was that the bodyguards would be absolved.

The senator's 82-year-old father, Huey P. Long, sr., arrived here from Winnfield and viewed the body of his son last night in the Rabenhorst funeral home.

The body, clad in a tuxedo, lay in a massive bronze casket in the chapel of the mortuary in exactly the same spot where the day before the body of Senator Long's assassin, Dr. Weiss, had rested in a gray cloth casket, which was sealed.

the medium of federal courts, has been able to thwart his efrorts."

"Dumping a load of unconstitutional legislation of the bench of the supreme court, fully aware in advance of its inevitable decision," Snell said, "would give him the club with which to belabor both the supreme court and the Unted States Constitution. There can be little doubt that such tactics may be politically shrewd. . . .

"That President Roosevelt and his advisers intend to make an attack upon the Constitution a part of their campaign next year is perfectly obvious. It does not rest upon speculation. Their record clearly indicates it."

He named these men as being among those who had declared publicly the Constitution must be revamped: Rexford G. Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture and director of rural resettlement; General Hugh Johnson, former NRA chief and now New York relief administration; R. Waltonmoore, assistant secretary of state; James Roosevelt, son of the president; Postmaster General Farley; Donald Richberg, another former recovery administrator; Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.); Secretary Wallace and Prof. Raymond Moley, original brain truster.

Saucido pleaded not guilty and Rosa entered a double plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity.

Mussolini that Britain would be strong in urging opposition to any unprovoked war against Ethiopia.

Applause Greets Speech

Lengthy applause greeted Sir Samuel's declaration that Great Britain stood for the league covenant in its entirely. This was deemed a plain allusion to sanctions or penalty provisions of the covenant.

The British foreign secretary pleaded for a calm, dispassionate consideration of the Italo-Ethiopian problem, but warned that this could not be done in an atmosphere of war threats.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, sitting in the center of the hall, listened intently.

A stir of excitement ran through the auditorium when Sir Samuel said that a spirit of war, "even of war for war's sake," has "raised its head in more places than one."

Aloisi Nervous

As the British foreign minister declared slowly and earnestly that, if changes must come, they must come "by consent, not dictation; by peaceful means, not war or threat of war," Aloisi stroked the back of his neck nervously.

W. W. Yen, Chinese minister to Moscow, warned the league assembly that unless some effort is made to preserve peace in the Orient, it cannot survive in the west.

"During the past few years," said yen, "statesmen seem to have attached undue importance to the events in Europe and tried to minimize the gravity of events elsewhere."

ETHIOPIAN WOMEN MOBILIZE FOR WAR

By JAMES A. MILLS

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 11. (AP)—Ethiopian women set about mobilizinb "batallions of death" throughout the empire today, ready for an imminent departure for the front.

In stern seriousness, these daughters and granddaughters of the female warriors who fought with fanaticism against the Italians on the Adua battlefield of 1896 began sharpening their spears and sabres after Emperor Haile Selassie I accepted the offer of their services.

Their leader, the beautiful, tiger-eyed Madame Wayzaro Abebath Charkoze, told the Associated Press they had no fear of Italian airplanes and tanks.

"These mechanical things can be made by man, but only God can bestow courage, and He will enable us to triumph over the Italians," she asserted.

FRANCE TIGHTENS ARMS CONTROL, SEEKS PEACE

PARIS, Sept. 11. (AP)—The French government took steps to tighten and modernize its control of arms traffic today as hopes for peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis at Geneva seemed to dwindle.

Existing regulations governing exportation of military, naval and aerial war material of all categories were confirmed and codified in a comprehensive decree published in the official journal.

HOARE'S SPEECH IS TAKEN AS 'THREAT'

ROME, Sept. 11. (AP)—The newspaper La Tribuna today interpreted the speech of Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, before the League of Nations assembly at Geneva as a veiled threat both to the league and to France.

"The orator evidently wished to indicate that when the league of nations becomes incapable of solving the Italian-Ethiopian problem according to the British viewpoint, the government in London might vote to leave the league," said the newspaper.

WATER DISTRICT BOARD MAY CHANGE MEETING PLACE

Breaking a habit of long standing, the board of directors of the Orange county water district may decide today to change their meeting place from Garden Grove to Santa Ana. Ever since the district was formed, the board has met at Garden Grove.

The act creating the district specified that Garden Grove should be its headquarters. An amendment passed at the last session of the legislature made it possible for the board to meet at any place in the district. It was expected that at today's meeting in Garden Grove the board would consider the question of holding meetings in Santa Ana.

It also anticipated that the position of the board in regard to the county water program and bond election for its support would be discussed this afternoon.

GLORIFIES THE GOOD

ect, calling for $6,374,000 in federal aid, has been approved by army engineers. If approved by the allotment board, the project then would go before the President. But the allotment board, apparently, is waiting for Mr. Ickes and Mr. Hopkins to settle their argument before it meets.

President Roosevelt, according to the Associated Press, apparently favors the Hopkins idea of making jobs available quickly, with the idea that congress stipulated the $4,800,000,000 public works fund should be spent this fiscal year. Last week the President said he would prefer to see construction of permanent structures, but said he was confronted by the task of providing jobs immediately.

Halloran Explains

Orange county's program could fit into this pattern, for it is all ready to start as soon as the President gives the word. Army engineers have promised that they can launch the work by Oct. 12.

Terrence Halloran, state emergency Relief administration director here, explained today his interpretation of the rift between Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Ickes. The latter's plan of big construction projects would absorb much skilled labor but still would leave many persons on relief unemployed, because they are not skilled in construction work. The president is insisting that the relief load must be taken care of. Mr. Hopkins, in insisting that smaller projects be carried out, is moving to take care of this relief load, Mr. Halloran indicated.

JEAN'S MOTHER SUES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11. (AP)—Mrs. Jean Bello, mother of Jean Harlow, platinum blonde film actress, has filed suit for divorce against Marino Bello, charging cruelty. Bello is the stepfather of the actress.

BARBARA TO BE FAIR'S GUEST

Barbara Rowland, California's outdoor girl, will be among honored guests at the Los Angeles County fair, at Pomona Saturday. That was the news D. Eyman Huff, Orange, announced to Mayor Fred Rowland this morning.

She is to wear the riding clothes in which she took honors at the Salinas rodeo in July and expects to ride one of the horses belonging to John Wagner, Placentia, her tutor for the state contest.

Set aside as Governor's day, Saturday will be featured by the appearance of Gov. Frank E. Merriam who will introduce Barbara at a grandstand program.

SEWAGE PROJECT TO BE REPORTED

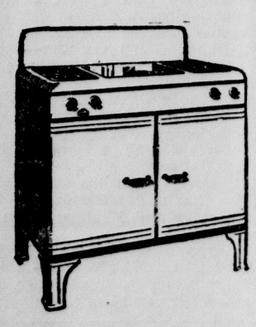

The culmination of experiments on sewage reclamation will be reported to the general sewage reclemation committee tomorrow at 6 p. m. in a meeting at James cafe. The committee, headed by J. E. Lewis, Yorba Linda, will hear an outline by Harry N. Jenks, consulting engineer on the sewage reclamation project.

Mr. Jenks, who has been working on a demonstration project for reclamation, located here, will tell the results of his studies. It is expected that following tomorrow's meeting, plans will be announced for bringing visitors to the demonstration plant so they can learn of the reclamation project and its possibility for success on a larger scale.

PROJECTS HAVE JOBS FOR 65

Three Orange county projects, costing approximately $47,794, have been approved by the San Diego office of the Works Progress administration and sent to the state headquarters at San Francisco. If approved by authorities there and at Washington, the projects will provide jobs for 65 skilled and unskilled workmen.

News of this development was made public by George White, WPA director for the San Diego and Orange county district.

Two of the projects are at Newport Beach. One calls for street improvements on Seashore drive between Thirty-sixth and Fifty-first streets, leveling the hydraulic fill along the ocean front from Thirty-sixth to M street, and constructing concrete sidewalk along the public beach. This job will cost $18,862 and employ 15 men.

The second Newport Beach project calls for constructing 70,345 square feet of concrete sidewalk and 6137 feet of curb on Surf avenue from Palm to Ninth street and along Ocean avenue from Ninth to Fifteenth street. The cost will be $16,944 and the project will employ 30 men.

The third project is at San Clemente. It calls for sub-grading and resurfacing 225,250 square feet of streets with oil and rock. The streets included are Avenida, Victoria and Valencia streets, Calle Toledo and Calle Gaviota. The cost will be approximately $11,988, and the project will employ 20 men.

YES, WE HAD A CHINATOWN!

Opium Smokers Are Recalled

E. P. Stafford, pioneer Santa Ana resident and former banker, recalls the days when, as a boy, he watched the residents of Santa Ana's Chinatown smoke opium and float away on poppy dreams of happiness.

He told his vivid memories of visits to the old China house on South Main street which were recalled by a recent statement of Mrs. Harriet Trickey, another Santa Ana pioneer, who said that when she came to this city to make her home, Chinatown was located on the present site of the city hall.

Mr. Stafford said today there never was a China house on the lot now known as the city hall site, but that the property is in the district generally known then as Chinatown.

The first China house, he recalls, was a little south of the present city hall site and on the east side of Main street and nearer Second street than it was to third street.

Narrow Building

The house was a cheap frame building, about 4 feet wide and with a depth of approximately 50 feet. An aged Chinese known as Hong Kee occupied the building and operated a laundry there. The wash tubs were in the rear of the building and the front section was used as an ironing room and office. The wash room and office were connected by a long hall from which three sleeping compartments opened.

These compartments, Mr. Stafford said, were about 8 by 10 feet in size and provided sleeping quarters for six men each. The men slept in bunks built three-high along the wall. The three rooms accommodated 18 men and were generally filled.

"It was a great pastime for me," Mr. Stafford said, "when I was about 14 years old, to go into the sleeping rooms and watch the men smoke opium. It was quite interesting to watch the expression on their faces as they would go under the influence of the drug. They would smile and appear as happy as was possible to be."

Houses Finally Burned

The majority of men who lived in the old China house were employed by Ah Yow, a Chinese labor contractor. He would contract for any type of work and furnish the men. At night these men, occupants of the house, kept the windows tightly boarded to ward off rocks, hurled at the building by boys of the town.

As Santa Ana grew there was an increasing demand for Chinese labor and the size of Chinatown increased. Soon the entire block, with the exception of the city hall site, was built up with cheap frame buildings and occupied by the orientals.. A harbor for rats, insanitary and an eyesore, the district finally was eliminated when some of the residents banded together and burned the buildings.

Mr. Stafford said he is certain the city hall site never was occupied by a Chinese dwelling because his brother operated a livery stable on the property. The stable was built in 1822 and sold a few years later to T. Holzgrafe who used it in the operation of a carriage repair and blacksmith shop.

SERA CAN'T CHANGE HUBBY

Paycheck Problem Remains

The State Emergency Relief administration has changed life considerably by providing jobs for unemployed persons, but it has not changed the old, old question of what happens to hubby's pay check.

Not long ago a man and his wife came into the office of Terrence Halloran, SERA director here. They demanded hubby's pay check. The wife was a little more insistent than the husband.

Mr. Halloran showed them the payroll, which recorded payment of all money due the man. Hubby accepted the evidence, but the wife wasn't satisfied.

Then Mr. Halloran sent for another document. Each person receiving an SERA check signs a receipt for it. At this point hubby showed an inclination to let the matter drop, and edged away. But the wife stood her ground. She saw the receipt.

Mr. Halloran does not know the story from that point on, but he told the first installment yesterday to the county SERA committee. He cited the instance to show why he prefers to have checks delivered direct to the payee and get receipts.

CRASH FATAL TO ANAHEIM MAN

Richard Wallace, 23, of 720 North Olive street, Anaheim, was reported killed today in an automobile accident seven miles west of Colton when his car swerved across the highway and crashed into a truck.

Anaheim police said that the victim, whose identity had at first been in doubt, had been identified as young Wallace by the coroner in San Bernardino county.

The Anaheim resident's car was reported to have collided with a truck driven by Harry Snyder, Los Angeles, who was cut and bruised in the accident, as was Albert C. Glover, also of Los Angeles, his helper.

Mr. Wallace was born and raised in Anaheim and is a member of a pioneer family there. He leaves his mother, Mrs. Mary B. Clark, and a brother, Timothy, both of Anaheim; two uncles, Joseph Carroll, Anaheim, and Tim Carroll, Elsinore, and an aunt, Mrs. Charles Carroll, Anaheim.

GARDEN GROVE CHAMBER SUPPORTS FLOOD CONTROL BOND ISSUE

GROUP GIVES UNANIMOUS APPROVAL

Supervisors Commended on Action Taken Calling Vote for Funds

GARDEN GROVE.—Members of the chamber of commerce, meeting here last night, unanimously indorsed the proposed county flood control bond issue.

Members also voted to send a letter to supervisors commending them on their action in seeking government aid and in calling the election.

Secretary R. E. Johnson was asked to contact railroad and county officials regarding clearance of culverts in the district in preparation for winter rains. A committee including E. J. Tobias, E. R. Schneider and S. A. Monroe was appointed to investigate possibility of holding a prize night in Garden Grove.

Fire Chief Tobias reported that the fire district tax has been lowered from 20 to 15 cents for the year and that the county supervisors have signed a contract for increase of lights in the business district. Increase of lighting was one of the major projects of the chamber for the year.

Authorities will be contacted with a request for directional signs at the crossing of Manchester and Euclid avenues and Harbor and Garden Grove boulevards, it was decided.

Queens of Crops at Pomona Fair

Once again the royal court of agriculture is a feature of the annual Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona Sept. 13 to 29. The fairest maidens of the southland have been selected to represent the predominating industries in the displays. Upper left is Miss Helen Cox, queen of the corn; upper right, Miss Dallas Houts, queen of the peaches; lower right, Miss Betty Driscoll, ruling over the livestock, and Miss Merlyn Brown, queen of the poultry.

LEGION HEADS ARE SEATED

Past Fifth Area Commander Charles H. Wood of Indio and Mrs. Wood attended the meeting. Members of the Legion auxiliary, the Sons of the Legion and many others attended the installation.

ATTENDANCE AT H. B. SCHOOL SHOWS INCREASE

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Seven hundred and forty-one children met happily on the campus yesterday and marched up the steps of the newly completed elementary school to attend classes in the new structure for the first time. The $300,000 building was just completed for the fall term. Miss Agnes Smith is the principal.

Enrollment is about 30 more than at the opening a year ago and it is expected that the number will be increased.

Plans are being made to hold an "open house" or dedication at a date that will be definitely decided upon later.

SCHOOLS OPENED AT SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH.—The new elementary school was opened yesterday to children of this district. The enrollment was somewhat larger than that of the opening day a year ago. Children were taken on a tour of inspection through the new structure before they settled down to assignments. J. H. McGaugh is principal of the school.

New playground equipment is installed at the grounds and includes a merry-go-round and other apparatus installed at a cost of about $275.

Plans are being made to have an "open house" next week when parents of children may inspect the school.

LAGUNA DOG TAG SALE STARTS

LAGUNA BEACH.—Dog licenses may be procured this week at the table in front of the postoffice. Mrs. Helen C. Tiffany, president of the Humane society here, reports that dog owners are responding favorably to the new set-up by which the society receives the full amount taken in for licenses. All money goes to maintenance of the animal shelter, and in part relieves the city of this added burden. Until recently dog license money was divided equally between the city and the society.

SCHOOL TO OPEN IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON.—Regular classes at St. Mary's school on West Commonwealth avenue will open with a mass at 8:15 a. m. Thursday in St. Mary's Catholic church, it has been announced.

Facilities will be provided for students wishing to obtain musical instruction, it was announced. Classes will be held all day Thursday.

Brick Dust

By BRICK GAINES

We shudder to think of the horrible cruelty of members of the Chiselers—pardon me, Round Table club, of Fullerton.

Every year they insist that Congressman Sam Collins go out and shoot 'em a deer.

Nope, I'm not trying to start a Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Congressmen — it's the dear little deer that brings a shudder of pity.

Why should the poor animal—and, incidentally, the congressman—suffer, so that the Chiselers, pardon again, the Round Tablers, can have a free meal?

From what we've heard, the congressman was in almost as bad a fix as his victim, after his recent hunting trip. His horse, instead of being a hurdler, turned out to be an expert at taking out that halfback on the end-around play, and Congressman Sam came out on the bottom, we hear.

Anyway, the legislative nimrod came back from his trip with a deer and a sprained wrist, while all the horse got out of it was a limp, it is reported on good authority.

* * *

It's an annual custom, furnishing a venison feed for the active Cigar Grabbers Union in Fullerton.

Last year they accused the donor of substituting a half-grown goat for the venison a la Collins. The year before that, they contended that a stray mule had fallen victim to the congressional cannon.

We feel safe in saying, however, that if meat for the meal should prove to be from an elephant well along in its second century, that the club would go right on eating, provided that it was free.

* * *

Nevertheless, the Round Table organization authorized an investigation committee, reported led by President and Head Chiseler Harry Suters, to make sure that the deer was really a deer and not something else altogether.

D. Perry Maynard, widely known Fullerton newshound, returned from his vacation the other day.

He went 'way back into the mountains some place, taking his family with him.

Which, of course, isn't anything unusual.

However, when he returned, Perry could be heard for quite a distance, bragging about a fish.

It was a fish that someone else caught.

Which IS unusual.

Mrs. Nellie M. Cline of Placentia, grand trustee or something for the Native Daughters of the Golden West, made a speech on Monday.

Personal nomination for the most beautiful drive in this or any other part of the country—from Newport along the coast through Laguna, then up over the Ortega highway.

That way one sees Newport Harbor, which, as Harry Welch will bashfully admit, is almost enough for one day. Then the beautiful scenery along the coastline through Laguna—lots of the latest in new homes, the latest in bathing girls, and everything else that the sightseer might wish.

Then up through San Juan Capistrano, with perhaps a stop at the mission, and after that through the beautiful hills in back of the old pueblo. If you think that California is dry and brown in the summertime, just take a peek at those hills, with their bright green oak trees, the sage, and whatever else it is that makes them look so green.

Climaxing the trip is a stop just before the highway starts downward to Lake Elsinore. There one receives all the thrill of being in an airplane — without having to leave the ground. Perfect patterns made by farms may be seen far below, and perhaps a little boat leaving a silver wake behind on the lake.

After you've reached this point, you can do as you please. Only two ways to go, either up or down. We refuse advice upon how to reach home.

SCHOOL BONDS POLL IS SET

ANAHEIM.—Residents of the Loara school district, west of here, will go to the polls tomorrow to vote on a proposed $18,000 bond issue for a new school building.

The present structure is over 50 years of age.

The proposed bonds would be retired in 18 years, with an interest rate of not over 5 per cent a year, according to C. C. Vogle, school board president.

Mrs. Anna C. Little has been named inspector, and Mrs. Pauline Marion and Mrs. Anna E. Vogle will be judges at tomorrow's election.

SERVICES HELD FOR ANAHEIM MAN

ANAHEIM.—Funeral services for Rasmus Knudsen, 83, who died at his home, 728 North Topeka street, on Monday, were scheduled for 2 p. m. today from Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral parlors. Interment was in Anaheim cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Ophelia Knudsen; three sons, A. W. Knudsen of Fullerton, John M. Knudsen of Blackfoot, Idaho, and N. E. Knudsen of Los Angeles; two daughters, Mrs. O. H. Bittelneyer of Los Angeles, and Mrs. J. H. Smith of Burley, Idaho; a brother, Christian Knudsen of New Berlin, Ill., 21 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

SHOWER GIVEN AT ORANGE

ORANGE.—Honoring Mrs. Martell Thompson, a recent bride, Mrs. Elmer N. Swift entertained with a crystal shower at her South Batavia street home last evening. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Lois Kersey and Miss Velda Dunham of Anaheim. Mrs. Eugene Beattie and Miss Peggy Paige held high scores in bridge.

Present were Mesdames Donald Storm, Oral Carpenter, Melvin Goodchild, Cortez Hoskins, Eleanor Barthelmes, Kermit Palmer, Eugene Beattie, Jack Kahn, Glenn Stedman, and Misses Peggy Page and Marie Trost, all of Anaheim; Miss Jean King, Fullerton; Mesdames Vernon Randall and Frank Humphries, Los Angeles; Miss Cuba Carner Reed, Manhattan Beach, and Mrs. Francis Horton, Santa Ana.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S GROUP TO MEET

GARDEN GROVE.—A special program is being planned for the first meeting of the year for the Young People's league of the First Methodist church next Sunday at 6:30 p. m.

Anticipating the year's work, the Rev. and Mrs. Grover Ralston entertained 35 young people recently with a fellowship meeting at their home.

RELIEF CORPS HAS MEETING

MIDWAY CITY.—The Woman's Relief Corps held their regular monthly meeting at the Community clubhouse on Monday evening. Members voted at the business session to devote the next meeting on Sept. 23, to preparation and rehearsal for inspection by the state officers, which will take place in November.

E. E. Leith, Miss Amy Leith and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. James attended the Eastern Star and Masonic picnic held at the Boy Scout park in Huntington Beach recently.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sweem and Mrs. Nellie Sweem were dinner guests of friends in Los Angeles recently.

Leonard Ogle returned yesterday from Cherokee, Iowa, where he had been called by the death of his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kirkham of Long Beach were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Suess.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Kirkham and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robertson spent the week-end at Barton Flats.

Glen Gillo of Los Angeles, who has been a guest of his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William Sweem, has returned to his home.

* * *

Henry Cook has started construction of a five-room house on his lot on Jackson street. The house is attractively planned and will have every convenience.

ORANGE V. F. W. HAS MEETING

ORANGE.—Members of Otto Rozell post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, met last night at the Veterans' hall, the auxiliary of the organization meeting at the same time. Post members made plans for a meeting Sept. 18, when they will entertain veterans staying in a camp at El Toro. The visitors will bring speakers, who will tell of the work of soil erosion being done at the camp. Nomination of officers will be held at the next meeting.

Afterward they joined with the auxiliary for a social hour celebrating the second birthday of the auxiliary. A large cake bearing the date of organization of the auxiliary was part of the refreshments. Visitors present in the auxiliary meeting were Mesdames Opal Walter and Mary Borg of Anaheim and Mrs. Esther Hendrickson, president of the Santa Ana unit.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET AT G. G.

Present were Mrs. Naomi Hess and children, Buelah Mae, Geraldine, Robert and Carl; Gordon Rhode, Henry Miller, Bert Skiles, Mrs. J. M. Ward, Ruth and Neva Ward and Florence Shultz, all of Orange; Eva Martin of Santa Ana, Grace and Frank Gleason of Fullerton, John Murphy, the hosts and their daughters, Irma and Gladys, and sons, Glenn, Marvin and Melvin.

Mrs. Harriett Trickey left yesterday for her home in Middletown following a visit with relatives.

COUNTY UNION HAS MEETING

GARDEN GROVE.—Efforts of the Orange County Methodist Ministerial union will be concentrated on work among young people during the coming year, according to a decision reached at a meeting held recently, at which the Rev. and Mrs. Grover Ralston were hosts.

Preceding the business meeting, which also included election of officers for the year, a steak dinner was served in the yard at the parsonage. Members of the Queen Esther society, Misses Lois Reafsnyder, Elva Ralston, Eva Gilbreath, Charlotte Bartlett and Ferne Schnitger, served the meal.

The Rev. E. Dow Hoffman of Fullerton, vice president for the past year, who presided in the absence of the Rev. Russell Stroup of Newport Beach, was chosen as the new president. H. K. Holtzinger of La Habra was elected vice president and program chairman while the Rev. Joe Thompson of Wintersburg was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Also present at the meeting were Dr. and Mrs. George A. Warmer and the Rev. O. W. Reinius of Santa Ana and Mrs. Warmer's mother, Mrs. C. Hassel of Fayette, Ind.; the Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Lowe and daughter, Ardith, of Costa Mesa; the Rev. and Mrs. J. Hunter Smith, Yorba Linda; the Rev. and Mrs. A. T. Hobson and two children of Orange; the Rev. and Mrs. W. N. White of Laguna Beach; the Rev. and Mrs. Ray Harker of Anaheim; the Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Holtzinger, La Habra; the Rev. A. B. Escobosa of El Modena and the Rev. and Mrs. John Burman of Westminster.

CHURCH RALLY HELD AT H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—The Rev. C. C. Root, pastor of the Redlands Christian church, who just returned from attending a convention of Christian churches in London, gave thrilling accounts of the convention and a storm at sea on the voyage home at the rally held in the local Christian church all day yesterday. About 400 persons from the Southland attended.

He declared that England is through with the depression and the country is prosperous. There are 2,000,000 unemployed either because of age, pensions, crippled or the idle who will never work.

He condemned the International Youth Movement because of its modernistic teachings

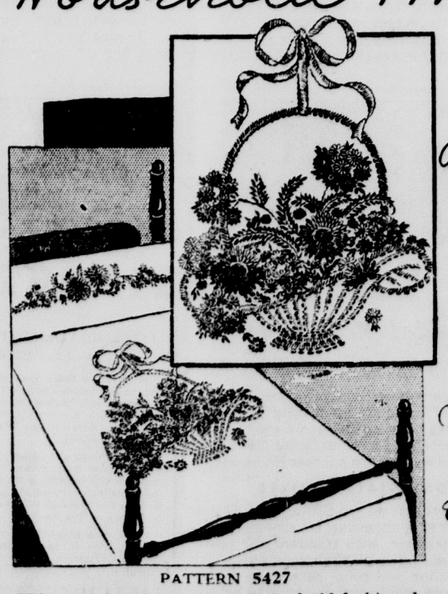

The Rev. Charles Railsback of Fellows delivered a sermon to replace the Rev. T. R. Appelbury of Los Angeles. The Rev. Ed Masters of the Lincoln Heights Christian church gave a sermon in place of the Rev. Ivan Williams of Elsinore.

SUPERVISOR TO TALK AT MEETING OF FARM CENTER

ORANGE.—Supervisor Willard Smith will be principal speaker at a postponed meeting of the Foothill farm center, Thursday evening, September 18, and his subject, the proposed water bonds. The meeting, scheduled for tonight, was postponed due to opening of school, which prevented women of the home department from preparing the regular dinner. The meeting will be held in the Villa Park social hall, preceded by a 6:30 dinner, it was announced yesterday by the secretary, W. C. Armstrong. The meeting will be the first of the fall and winter series.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Department, 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, Calif

MUCH WORK AND NO PAY!

Kindergarten Taught Free

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Kids in Capistrano are going to have a kindergarten this year, something that they've never had before.

The school district isn't allowed to operate the class for youngsters this year, but Mrs. Glenn Bast is going right ahead with plans for pupils, without compensation.

The law requires that a petition signed by 25 parents who live within a mile of the school, asking establishment of the class, be filed with the board by July 1. It is too late for parents to take that action this year, so Mrs. Bost decided to start the class anyway, even if she received no pay.

School buses will pick up children along with others who attend elementary school when classes start next Monday. The music room at the grammar school will be utilized for the youngsters, and a charge of 50 cents per week for each child to cover expenses for books, material, playground insurance and other necessary items.

Harry Pritchard of Santa Ana, father of Mrs. Bast, is making blocks and other necessary equipment for the children. Mrs. Bast taught in the Fremont school in Santa Ana from 1931 to 1933 and so is well versed in teaching.

Coast L-i-n-e-s

By McDONALD WHITE

We're all set for a much-needed new pier in Laguna. Only two factors might prevent it. First, PWA officials must okay the grant of $45,000. Second, the people of Laguna must vote to sanction a governmen loan of $55,000 in general issue bonds. If all goes well with the government and the people, there's no need to worry. As soon as the project is okayed in Los Angeles and Washington—it hasn't happened, but it may any minute—the council will slate a special election.

One of three plans proposed should be decided upon by public opinion before the election. The first is for an attractive wooden structure from the shoreline to the big rocks, and a concrete or steel pier from the rocks out to a distance of about 400 feet. The balance of the money would be used to build a breakwater from the rocks over the natural reef that angles off to the left.

The second plan is to build a concrete pier or a steel structure out to the big rocks, with an extension of about 800 feet. This plan embraces a finer look pier, longer and better constructed, but eliminates the breakwater.

The third is to build a pier off Ocean avenue. This would take off more or less from the center of town, but would involve more money. It would have to be longer to get out to deep water, and a sandy bottom entails a higher cost of construction. The advantage would be the central location.

Now let's consider where we fish. The first plan with a wooden structure approach, would be a means of saving money enough to build a breakwater. It is also said, a well-known marine engineer has said that a successful breakwater would have to be built much farther out than planned.

The second plan seems the most logical to date. The fact that Laguna was blessed with a magnificent coast line should be convincing enough argument that nothing but the finest architecture can be tolerated without spoiling the beauty of the crescent-shaped beach.

The third plan—a pier in front of the dance hall—presents various problems. A pier on this spot would be an unforgivable assault on nature's original plan of symmetry. To sacrifice the harmonious thrust of a natural point with jutting rocks off shore to save a few people a few steps seems inconceivable. Yet stepsaving is the only advantage in favor of a pier at the end of Ocean avenue.

A graceful, streamlined pier with long-sweeping arches like swells would be a brilliant endeavor to beautify the coast line. Viewed from either side, the effect would be something to remember at sunset. It should be put together with a thought for the future—modern, different, sleek. And it could have a floating boat landing to serve the purpose until sufficent funds are available to build a breakwater.

What are your ideas? If you have a good one, communicate with Mayor Frank Champion or A. J. Stead, city engineer. It's an open forum. Anyone with a post card has the floor.

* * *

Progress is unpredictable. The days of going to the good old postoffice twice daily for mail will soon be over. The big postalticians have finally made up their minds that October 1 is the day when a half dozen new mail carriers will start hoofing it about town with those polite but brief reminders that that certain bill is only three months overdue and please pay-up-or-else. Those of us living inside the city limits and somewhere near 50 feet from the street only have to buy little letter boxes. But all the ruralocrats who live outside the tax-limits must buy a post and a box to plant at the curb so that the "mounted carrier" can gallop from one to tother in his steel super-charger. It saves twenty cents box rent anyway.

News about Laguna-minded fiction writers: E. B. Crosswhite now a Riverside newspaper man who lands in Satevepost every now and then, was down here recently. Reports writing a novel based on the "walkathons." Clever idea.

E. W. Paynter's latest novel about strikes is in the hands of his agent and is going the rounds. Ever see the picture "Shipmates" on the screen? That was taken from Ernest Paynter's prize story, "Maskee," published in American Magazine and chosen as one of the best 16 printed in United States for that year. We'll hear more about this writer.

William Colt Macdonald has just finished a novel for Covici-Friede.

Fred Nebel will have a new novel out this fall—Little, Brown list. He'll be back from New York before long.

Alan Vaughn Elston, Santa Ana writer and habitue of Laguna, has his third short story in Cosmopolitan this month. That's fictional ski-jumping in a big way!

Harold C. Wire is working hard, as usual.

GARDEN GROVE GUILD MEETS

GARDEN GROVE.—Miss Leah Merchant, president of the Queen Esther Guild, invited members and their advisor, Miss Velda Barnes, to meet at her home on Brookhurst road for their meeting Monday evening. The topic chosen to study for the year, "Mirrors," featured appointments for the tables at which a pot-luck dinner was served. Miss Marjorie Merchant assisted with hostess duties. The evening's lesson was given by Miss Lois Reafsnyder.

Others present were Misses Joyce Arkley, Eva Gilbreath, Doris Stocks, Isabel Biggs, Lois Weber, Evelyn Lamb, Charlotte Bartlett, Hannah Jorgensen, Dorothy and Myrtle Gardner, Lillian Crane, Elva Ralston and Ferne and Joy Schnitger.

WOMAN'S CLUB HAS MEETING

SEAL BEACH.—The Seal Beach Women's club opened its club work for the year today at the city auditorium with Mrs. Anna Collier, president in charge.

Plans for the work of the club year were outlined and committee chairmen made reports of work done while the club was closed for the summer and told of plans for the year's work.

A pot-luck luncheon opened the meeting and after the business session a short musical program was given.

COUPLE WED AT HOME OF FRIENDS

ORANGE.—The home of a family friend of long standing was chosen for the wedding of Mrs. Jane Grassle of Los Angeles and George A. Grassle of San Jose, when they were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Rogers, 741 East Chapman avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Robert B. McAuley, pastor of the Presbyterian church, before an arch covered with honeysuckle, and flanked by tall baskets of mixed flowers.

Guests were the son and granddaughter of the bridegroom, Harry Grassle and Miss Mary Alice Grassle of Ventura; Mrs. Madelyn Allen, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Ross Grow, Santa Ana.

SCHOOL SETS RECORD AT ORANGE

Larger Enrollment Than Last Year Recorded at High School

ORANGE.—A record first day enrollment was reported yesterday at Orange Union High school with 719 pupils reporting for work from various sections included in the district. This figure was 46 higher than last year, probably due to the largest freshman class heretofore registered. Classes on the first day were shortened, with an assembly period just before noon featuring speeches by the principal, A. Haven Smith, student body president, Richard Harbottle, and members of the faculty.

Grade school enrollment was slightly below that of last year, only two schools, Cypress street and Center street school, showing an increase. A total of 902 pupils were enrolled in grammar schools of the city, according to George C. Sherwood, superintendent. A full time schedule was in operation in the elementary schools today.

Parochial schools met for registration Monday, starting regular classes yesterday. Approximately 240 children were enrolled, a slight increase over last year. St. John's reported an attendance of 180. The teaching staff is composed of Principal William Batterman, Mrs. Edith Gorath, Paul Hedder, Eugene Wunderlich and J. J. Troester.

Immanuel school also has an increase of pupils with a total of 61 reporting today. Teachers are E. T. Pingel and Miss Dorothy Schierloh.

VIOLINIST IN H.B. PROGRAM

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Vladimir Lenski, Russian-English-American violinist, delighted a large audience at the opening of the Huntington Beach Women's club year as he played selections from several of the world's greatest composers on his old violin, which was made in 1515.

Mrs. Marion Miller, local concert pianist, accompanied Mr. Lenski at the piano and shared honors with the guest artist as the musicians were encored. Miss Hallie Mae Obarr, youthful vocalist, sang a group of songs and was well received. She was accompanied by Miss Phillips. Both were from Long Beach.

An elaborate program for the club year was outlined by Mrs. Arthur Wilson. A class in arts and crafts will be organized after a trip to a Naple's art studio next week, she said.

It was decided at the meeting to permit school teachers to be guests of the club at all meetings of the year.

There will be an interesting program given by Miss Martha Trafford and Miss Aiken, art teachers in the high and elementary schools, early this fall. Instructions will be given for making Christmas cards and other gifts.

About 70 women attended the meeting, which opened with a luncheon served by the members of the club board. Mrs. Jack Colvin presided.

Several new members were introduced, and Mrs. Dahlia Swift, membership chairman, will lead in a drive for members, it was reported.

W. C. T. U. MEETS AT ORANGE

ORANGE.—Delegates to the annual county convention were named yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the Presbyterian church.

The convention will be held Sept 19 and 20 in Santa Ana, and the following were chosen to represent the Orange union: Misses Mary and Carrie Hayward, Mrs. Mary Gross, Mrs. Flora Ralph, Mrs. D. Dwinell, Mrs. James Conner, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. Gilbert Scriven, Mrs. Arthur Fairwell, Miss Nellie White, Mrs. B. T. Beale, Mrs. J. E. Parks and Mrs. Angeline Courtney.

Directors for the coming year were also named and include evangelism, Mrs. J. E. Parks; flower mission, Mrs. B. M. Elliott; medical temperance, Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess; motion pictures, Mrs. Minnie Neville; social morality, Mrs. Jennie Conner; Union Signal; Mrs. Angeline Courtney, and Sunday school, Mrs. Gilbert Scriven.

Mrs. John Adams was elected to serve as vice president, filling the office formerly held by Mrs. Jennie Conner, who resigned to take a district office. At the close of the meeting, bouquets were presented the officers and directors by Mrs. J. E. Parks.

ORGANIZE GRANGE AT TUSTIN

TUSTIN.—Ranchers wishing to become charter members of a local chapter of the California State Grange were urged today to attend a meeting scheduled for the Tustin grammar school at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

The Pacific Coast league, now winding up in a blaze of hot games and a skin-tight race, has again proven its position as a standout material producer for big time squads. Gene Lillard, Angel ace, got his going-up papers the other day with a C. O. D. order for $15,000. Yesterday Joe Di Maggio and Oscar Moose Eckhardt, San Francisco and Mission pillars, got their notices to move on. Di Maggio gets a chance with the Yankees in the spring and the Brooklyn Dodgers cornered Eckhardt, now clouting at .405.

ARNOLD STRUCK LEADS SERIES

Rightfielder Arnold Struck of Olive has been crowned batting champion of the County Night Ball play-off series, which Charley Smith's Grenadiers won from Brea, three games to one.

Struck belted six hits in 12 attempts for an even .500 At one time he boasted a sensational mark of .833.

Olive has not heard from its challenge to Alhambra, Southern California amateur softball champion, for a game at Anaheim tomorrow night, although Big Ben Gelker, Olive's Class A pilot, was still trying to complete arrangements for the Class B club today.

COLTON CHAMPIONS LOSE 7-5 FRAY

Colton's champion Reds of the American Night Ball league were defeated, 7-5, by a collection of Arlington and Riverside all-stars at Riverside last night. Venn Botts, Colton's ace chucker, was touched for 13 hits, but fanned 12. Colton will play the winner of the Huntington Beach-Santa Ana National league series for the Southland crown.

OILERS EYE NIGHTBALL CROWN TONIGHT

FORTY-THREE REPORT FOR PRACTICE

Seven Drills Remaining Before Pasadena Game at Bowl Next Week

Seven drills away from their "preview" with Pasadena at the Municipal bowl a week from Friday night, Santa Ana's Dons flocked to Poly field for their third workout under Coaches Bill Cook and Al Reboin today.

Additional prep aces, swelling the college's turnout roster to 43, enlisted yesterday, and among them was a touted prospect the Dons have lured from the very back-yard of their upcountry rival, Fullerton.

His name is Joe Herbert, all-around backfield flash from Fullerton High school's 1933 eleven, who is a very close friend of the popular Reboin.

Two six-foot giants from Anaheim, DeForest Fee and John Meyers, who played on recent Colonist elevens, joined Frank Ochoa, one of the backfield spark-plugs of Anaheim's 1934 champions, in greeting the Don mentors.

Lehnhardt In Suit

John Lehnhardt, Garden Grove's great blocking halfback, Ralph Comstock and Fred Erdhaus, Don backs of last season; Larkin Martin, from Newport; and Henry Macaray, an assistant manager who has turned player, also enlisted. Ernie Villasenor and John Dougan of Anaheim have checked in their suits.

The Dons spent most of the time passing and punting, but were given a few preliminary plays. Their attack will be limited against Pasadena, of course, but Cook plans to have his cohorts well groomed in what few aerial and running maneuvers he will have given them by that time.

Varied Offense Due

Within a month the Dons will boast their usual varied offense, with laterals and forwards mixed with trick reverses and straight running plays.

Following the Pasadena conflict Sept. 20, the collegians combat U. S. C.'s potent freshmen and the Pomona college varsity. Both will be played at night in the Municipal bowl, prior to Santa Ana's first conference engagement with Riverside's champions here Oct. 11.

Frank Boyd, Don track star, is now working in Arizona, but plans to return here early next week to report for football. Vernon Koepsel, another cinderpath star trying his luck on the grid, may motor to the neighboring state after him . . . Joe Preininger and Duna Larrabee, U. S. C. varsity linemen, worked out at Poly field yesterday. . . . Preston Piper, 1934 assistant, has been named manager of the Dons. . . . Alvin Lamb and Walt Hendrie, ex-Saint backs, are expected in suit by the opening of classes Monday. Numerous other preps are slated to appear on that day.

PASADENA BULLDOGS BEGIN WORKOUTS

Pasadena Junior college, free-lancing in the Southern California association this season, has begun drilling for its non-conference fray with Santa Ana at the Municipal bowl a week from Friday night.

Bob McNeish, San Bernardino's 1934 coach, is head-man of the new Bulldogs—Otto Anderson, Carl Metter and John Thurman are assisting.

Pasadena boasts a large and enthusiastic squad of hopefuls, including Ralph Riddle, Negro who will be remembered here through his spectacular play at end against the high school last fall; Ray Kuhn and Ed Falkard, burly guards; John McDonough, center and tackle; LeRoy Tyson, Ken Dahl, Frank Abbey and Greg Sherman, linemen; and Larry Mitchell, 140-pound quarterback flash; Nate Moreland, Marvin Wright, Bill Schuelke and Bill Hadley, backs.

LOCAL SKATING RINK OPENS

Roller-skating returns as a Santa Ana sport with the opening of a spacious rink in the Santa Ana auditorium, Fourth and Van Ness streets, at 7:15 tonight.

The new skating palace, which will be open every night except Saturday, will be conducted by two Los Angeles men, Merel Severns and S. D. Byrd.

Conqueror of Don Budge Drops 6-2, 4-6, 12-10, 6-2 Struggle Today

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 11. (AP)—Sidney B. Wood jr. of New York, Davis cup alternate and former Wimbledon champion, defeated Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant jr. of Atlanta today, 6-2, 4-6, 12-10, 6-2, and gained the final round of the men's national singles tennis championship. He probably will meet England's Fred Perry, defending champion.

Grant eliminated Don Budge yesterday.

The two-year reign of Great Britain's great Fred Perry as United States singles tennis champion was ended this afternoon when Wilmer Allison, 31-year-old Texas veteran, defeated Perry in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3 before a capacity crowd of more than 14,000 in the West Side club's stadium.

OUTLOOK FOR CLASS BEES IS BRIGHT

Class B football at Santa Ana High school has lured 17 new prospects to Poly field. Never before has Clyde Cook, veteran skipper of the middleweights, had 37 boys in grid togs the week before opening of fall classes.

Assisted by Major Anderson, Santa Ana Junior college quarterback, Coach Cook is segregating linemen from backfield talent this week, and plans to start off Monday with a program of blocking and other fundamentals.

If San Diego does not sponsor a middleweight eleven, and the Hillers are not excepted to because of the long distance between schools, Santa Ana's Bees will have only two conference games—one at home with Alhambra, the other at Long Beach. Pasadena and Glendale withdrew from the Coast Preparatory league last spring.

The complete Santa Ana turnout, with positions listed for those who have designated them, follows:

Ernest Barrett, t; Clifford Buck, g; Clyde Cave, t; Horace Codling, g; Robert Cooper, e; Laurence Dresser, q; Jim Dudley, q; Worth Elliott, t-e; Tom Engelman, h; Ralph Fuller, e; Elson Gaebe, e; Wayne Harris, h-t; Harvey Hemphill, q-h; Nathan Levens, q; Pete Lovero, t; Hugh Neighbour, g; Ray O'Campo, c; Joe Ortega, g-c. Ralph Pagenkopp, q-f; Pete Partida, h; Joe Standifer, t; Milton Smith, e; Dearing Waggener, f-e; Frank Was, c; Marvin Webb, q; Merschel Whitney, h; Bob Wilde, e.

Carl League, Gene Miller, Jack Nelson, Fred Pimental, Dan Cordell, Harwood Anderson, Jerry Brown, Ralph Bright, Russell Haney and Charles Sawyer.

SAINT VARSITY TO SCRIMMAGE DONS

Light scrimmages between Santa Ana's Saints and Santa Ana's Dons will be arranged at Poly field, with the first tentatively slated Saturday.

Coaches Bill Foote and Reece Greene are whipping the Saints into shape for their non-league tussle with Orange here a week from Friday afternoon, while Coaches Bill Cook and Al Reboin are preparing the junior collegians for their initial test with Pasadena at the Municipal bowl a week from Friday night.

PIGSKIN PREVIEW

'Bama's Crimson Tide, Bowl Winner, Favored To Repeat As Best In Dixie

Riley Smith (center), the south's greatest quarterback of 1934, is back at Alabama, ready to throw his 190 pounds against the opposition in the Crimson Tide's bid for another invitation to the Rose Bowl (shown in picture below), where Alabama triumphed over Stanford last New Year's day. At the left is "Kay" Francis, veteran center who will again put the ball in play for the team rated as the one to beat in Dixie, and at the right is Coach Frank Thomas.

By KENNETH GREGORY

ATLANTA, Sept. 11. (AP)—It's just an old southern custom to favor Alabama's Crimson Tide for football supremacy.

Year in and year out the Tuscaloosa Terrors strike a new high in football superlatives, and 1935 finds them again highly regarded for the Southeastern conference championship.

Alabama and Tulane, undefeated co-champions of the "Big 13" last season, attracted the attention of the gridiron world to Dixie through impressive victories in post-season battles.

The Crimson Tide rolled over 10 opponents on its regular schedule, and then annihilated Stanford in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1. The Green Wave won nine games and lost to Colgate by two touchdowns, but soundly whipped Temple in the inaugural Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans on New Year's day.

Losses Are Heavy

Losses from those great elevens were extensive. Alabama graduated many stars, including Dixie Howell, Joe Demyanovich, Captain Bill Lee, Don Hutson—the latter two all-American players—Charlie Marr and Bob Ed Morrow. Every athlete who started for Tulane against Temple played his final collegiate contest.

One could hardly expect a team as powerful and resourceful as Alabama of 1934, which scored 22 points in 15 minutes against Stanford, will come forward this fall. Nor is it likely that Tulane's last crew will be duplicated.

The general belief among the experts, however, is that all southeastern teams will be improved, yet Alabama again is the consensus choice to rule the conference.

From its backfield the Crimson Tide lost Howell and Demyanovich. From the line went two brawny guards, Marr and Morrow; Hutson, a sensational end; and Captain Lee, a 220-pound roving tackle. Those losses ordinarily would wreck a team.

Has Capable Reserves

But their posts are expected to be filled by capable reserves—players like White and Peters, guards; Baswell, tackle; Walker, end; Fullback Rhordanz, and others, with perhaps some promising sophomores from an undefeated freshman team becoming regulars.

Many declare the Tide's greatest asset is Riley Smith, the outstanding quarterback in the south in 1934. Smith, a senior, weighs 190 pounds. He is an excellent field general, a terrific blocker and tackler. He can kick and throw passes and is adept at making extra points—he converted 23 last season.

Joe Riley, a sophomore who sprang into prominence last fall as a backfield substitute, will add power and speed to the ball-carrying corps. Some say he is just as good at running and throwing passes as Howell. Joe Angelich, a fairly good runner and a fine blocking halfback, also returns.

'Kay' Francis, Center

Four veterans will form the nucleus for the line. Kavanaugh (Kay) Francis will take up his old post at center, with Jim Whatley fortifying one tackle, and Paul (Bear) Bryant and Captain Jimmy Walker guarding the flanks. White and Peters likely will be the regular guards. Ben Baswell hopes to fill the tackle berth vacated by Lee.

There probably is no better end in Dixie than Bryant. He is an excellent pass receiver, and with Riley tossing them the crimsonshirts may come forward with another aerial attack to challenge the greatness of the Howell-Hutson combination.

Summarized, the general belief is that Alabama will not be as strong as in 1934, but will be powerful enough to march through a successful season and perhaps win its sixth southern championship in the last 10 years.

Green Wave's Understudies

Tulane lost such outstanding players as Joe Loftin, captain and fullback; Monk Simons, halfback; Lefty Brownson and John McDaniel, quarterbacks; Homer Robinson, all-southeastern center; George Tessier and Bob Simon, guards; Bob Tessier, tackle, and two ends, Dick Hardy and Charlie Kyle.

Despite this heavy evacuation, the loss may not be as severe as it might seem. There were understudies available for most every starting player and a good crop of freshmen.

However, the Greenies may be a year away from an all-victorious season.

The conclusion is that Tennessee, Louisiana State and Georgia will prove stronger threats to the favored Alabama than Tulane.

PLAN TO HONOR BALL PLAYERS

National Night Ball league players, as well as members of the Orange County Class B conference, will be honored at a dinner-dance in Memorial hall, Huntington Beach, on Sept. 26, it was announced today by Victor Terry.

Mr. Terry, who is president of the Windsor club that is sponsoring the affair, said approximately 300 players and fans will be invited. Dr. L. F. Whittaker and Herbert Wood are in charge of arrangements.

Among the honored guests will be members of the Huntington Beach nightball commission — Fred Grable, president; Cliff King, Jack Robertson, William Curnutt and Arthur Anderson.

The word "tabu" is of Polynesian origin and was first introduced to English speaking people by Captain Cook in the eighteenth century.

LITTLE BEATS FIRST TWO THREATS

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11. (AP)—Lawson Little, who shot his first game of golf 14 years ago over an abandoned graveyard in China, has "buried" an undertaker in his drive toward his second straight American amateur championship.

With far more ease than he shot down a trapshooter in the first challenge, the broad shouldered Californian absorbed a couple of punches on the chin yesterday and then followed through by burying the upset hopes of the golfing undertaker from Chicago, Bill Lain. He smothered undertaker Bill with a barrage of unerring blasts, leaving him stranded and defeated, 6 and 4, one hook west of the 14th tee.

Today, Knox Young jr., 26-year-old insurance salesman from Pittsburgh, will try to halt the champion who hasn't been stopped in 25 straight engagements in his victorious sweep to three successive amateur crowns in England and the United States. Young upset the veteran Max Marston of Philadelphia, former champion, in the first round last year, but his chances of gaining fame today were figured as subzero by the galleryites.

Sixty-three players were still in the odds-on struggle to dislodge Little today, but the last man to hold a decision over the champion was on the sidelines possibly offering advice. He was Zell Eaton of Oklahoma City, who beat Little in the first round of the 1934 Trans-Mississippi 2 and 1.

EBONY BOYS ON FIGHT CARD

Choice talent from the Los Angeles Ebony club will appear in the supporting bouts to the main event between Sailor Jack Hipps of the U. S. S. Pensacola and Frankie Herrera of Los Alamitos at the Orange County Athletic club tomorrow night.

Eddie Chapman, 180-pounder, will trade punches with Chief Wanetches of Los Alamitos in the special event. John Anderson, Ebony boxer, will oppose Sailor Bowen of the U. S. C. Pensacola in a bout between 140-pounders. Two other Ebony club boys—Jimmy Johnson and Willie Fields—will show against Kid Pachoa of Los Alamitos and Jimmy Merced of Placentia.

OTT'S RETURN TO BATTING HELPS N. Y.

Mel Comes Through as Giants Keep Pace in National Chase

By ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that Mel Ott has broken his hitless streak, perhaps the Giants will regain their old pace.

Ott came out of his slump in the second game of the doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, driving out two hits that contributed mightily to the second victory.

Ott contributed to the Giants' collapse last September with his record of coming to the plate 25 consecutive times without getting a hit. He failed to connect in the first game yesterday, which the Giants won, 4-3, and thereby hung up a new record of 28 times at bat without a hit.

Giants Win Two

In the second game, however, the right fielder drove in the Giants' first run in the fourth with a double, and sent the tying tally across in the ninth with a single. The Giants won, 4-2.

The double win brought the New Yorkers within a game and a half of the Cubs and two games and a half of the Cardinals, National league leaders.

The Cards took Philadelphia into camp, 4-2, but they had some anxious innings. Joe Bowman held the Birds to one hit and one run until the eighth inning, when they went on a three-run splurge, and then sent Dizzy Dean into the breach to retain their advantage.

Cubs Win Seventh

The Cubs recorded their seventh straight win, with Charley Root pitching a 4-0 shutout over the Braves. Root allowed but six hits. Only one runner got to second.

The New York Yankees defeated the Indians, 4-1, to make their victory string five straight. Vito Tamulis, an early season sensation, allowed but six hits.

The Yankee victory, coupled with the 6-0 defeat of Detroit by Washington, shaved the Tigers' lead to seven and a half games. Buck Newsom held the Tigers to six hits, while Schoolboy Rowe gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth inning after allowing 11 blows and four runs.

SERIES ENDS AT BOWL IF S. A. LOSES

Denneymen Conceded Chance to Win; Coates Will Carry Burden

Capable of prolonging the series, as evidenced by the recent thunder they have stolen from the Oilers, Santa Ana's invigorated Stars receive their severest test of the National Night Ball league playoffs at the Municipal bowl tonight when Huntington Beach comes over for the "kill."

Hostilities begin promptly at 8:15, and a fair gathering is anticipated in view of the splendid showing of Santa Ana in outclassing the Oilers in 13 innings while losing 3-2 at Huntington Beach Monday night.

Depends Upon Coates

With the championship so near their grasp, Joe Rodgers' merrymen will be an inspired gang in the crucial game, and only another great pitching performance by Jim Coates and improved hitting in the pinches will prevent the Oilers from returning home with the flag.

Larruping Louie Neva, winner of three of his four starts, will furnish the opposition for Coates again. Before the series began it was generally hinted that Manager Rodgers, annexing a 3-1 lead, might employ his No. 2 gunner, Howard Morning. Rodgers, however, plans to take advantage of the blinding speed and deceptive drop of Neva. He respects the Stars, and feels they are entitled to the best the Oilers can offer.

Records indicate Santa Ana's hitting has not fallen off, what with three Stars—Francis Conrad, George Preble and Leavitt Daley—heading the parade, and Merle Urbine and Rod Ballard listed above the .300 figure. Conrad, with a present mark of .471, has led the series ever since the inaugural. Preble, in the only two games he has played, has compiled an average of .400, and a remarkable fielding record second to none.

Base Hits Wasted

Many of Santa Ana's base hits have been wasted. Hitting in the pinches has been exceptionally weak. The Stars came up with the bases loaded twice, and had three other scoring opportunities Monday, but lacked the necessary punch.

Tom Denney, young leader of the Stars, will not juggle the Santa Ana lineup that has come to life in the past two games. Alvin Reboin, who has been a tremendous aid to Coates, will perform back of the log. Catcher "Bomo" Boral, out with a broken finger, will help coach.

Raymond (Doc) Smith, who hits the ball hard when he does connect, probably will see action in the outfield, but Manager Denney, Ballard and Daley are slated to start. The infield will remain intact—Urbine, 1b; Preble, 2b; Conrad, ss, and Tommy Young, 3b.

Schuchardt in Slump

Paul Neva, flychasing brother of Pitcher Louie, or Charley Zaby, will occupy rightfield for Huntington Beach, with steady Merv Lower catching; Bob Smith on first, Henry Thiery on second, Manager Rodgers at short and Bill McKinley on third. Orville Schuchardt and George Murray will fill the other outfield posts. Schuchardt, usually a deadly hitter, has been off form during the series, but may break his slump tonight.

L. A. TOURNEY OPENS

NEW SHAKEUP IN RELIEF PROGRAM THREATENS SERA EXISTENCE

MERGER WITH LOCAL UNIT IS HINTED

Greater Economy Could Be Effected by Move, Officials Believe

A new shakeup was looming today in the kaleidoscopic picture of unemployment relief. When the adjustment is complete, the State Emergency Relief administration, as a separate organization, may no longer be on the scene.

A survey was under way today to determine the possibility of merging the SERA with the county welfare organization.

The fate of the SERA has been a subject for speculation ever since the Works Progress administration took its place in the picture. The WPA soon will take over all construction projects formerly handled by the SERA. The latter already has become strictly a direct relief agency. The federal government has put much of the pure relief load back in the laps of the counties. Now officials are wondering if there is any reason for maintaining two organizations carrying on the same function.

Lewis to Make Survey

M. H. Lewis, field representative for the SERA in this district, has been taken from the job to make a state-wide survey of the possibility of putting the proposed merger into effect. It is believed that greater economy could be effected through consolidation of the SERA and county welfare organizations.

John Henderson, assistant state director of training service for the SERA, has replaced Mr. Lewis temporarily during the survey.

News of the impending change came to light here yesterday at a meeting of the county SERA committee when a letter from Mr. Lewis was read.

Staffs Reduced

Drastic reductions in the supervisory and administrative staff of the SERA already have followed the arrival of the WPA. Members of the committee yesterday wanted to know how much farther this cut is going to go. They also were curious to know what the relation of the SERA will be to the county welfare organization. There are no definite answers to these questions yet, said Terrence Halloran, SERA director here.

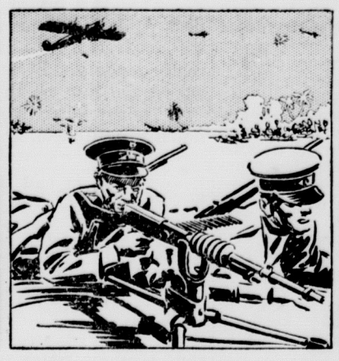

If the SERA continues as a separate organization, with a staff reduced still more, it is possible that it will be moved to a smaller building. It now occupies a two-story structure at the southwest corner of Second and Broadway. The committee discussed this possibility yesterday.

Until the survey by Mr. Lewis is completed, the picture may remain unchanged. The survey is expected to require about 30 days.

ITALY AND ETHIOPIA: Story of a Long-Brewing Conflict — No. 3

The colorful coronation of Hallie Selassie inaugurated an era of "modernization" in the ancient realm of Ethiopia. But in districts remote from Addis Ababa the tribes either did not comprehend or take kindly to the innovations and the centuries-old custom of raiding the cattle and slaves of "foreign" tribes continued. In September, 1934, Italy began to extend and reinforce her frontier posts in Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, especially in districts where the boundary was ill-defined or disputed.

The smouldering situation flared into flame in December, 1934, at Ualual, a desert station in the disputed region between Italian Somaliland and Ethiopia. A surveying party, guarded by some of Haile Selassie's trained troops, approached the place and found Italian forces in possession. Ethiopian machine guns and artillery barked, answered by Italian rifles and the machine guns of airplanes. The Ethiopians lost 110 killed and wounded. Italian casualties numbered 30. Both nations blamed the other for the clash.

Repercussions of the Ualual clash echoed through Africa and Europe and the League of Nations was appealed to by Haile Selassie. But Premier Mussolini declared that the safety of his county's position was threatened, asserted that Ethiopia was at best a "barbarian" country, unfit to hold membership in the league, and that Italy would no longer countenance invasion of her rights. So he started the steady stream of armed forces toward East Africa, the first troops sailing on March 2, 1935.

War clouds thickened over Haile Selassie's realm as Italian troop ships poured men and munitions across the Mediterranean, through the Suez canal and down the Red sea to Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. Great Britain and France viewed the developments with alarm and Haile Selassie called on his people to rally. Addressing his parliament, the Ethiopian ruler on July 18 told them he would personally lead his warriors to battle and he added: "It were better to die free than to live without liberty."

Finding efforts to check Italy by diplomatic means futile, Haile Selassie resigned himself to the inevitability of war. He knew his capital was vulnerable to air attacks so on Aug. 25, 1935, he ordered civilians to evacuate the city. Within three days the sodden roads leading from Addis Ababa were filled with white-clad, barefotted women and children, bearing meagre possessions on their backs, just as French peasants streamed westward before the German hosts of 1914-18.

BEGIN ISLAND NAVAL BASE IN MONTH

San Clemente Isle Job Outlined by Officer to L. A. Official

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11. (AP)—Work of establishing a naval base on San Cleemnte island is scheduled to start within a month, a letter in the hands of County Supervisor Anson Ford from the comandant of the eleventh naval district revealed today.

Ford said the communication was in reply to an inquiry he made as to whether the county could lease the island from the government for a prison farm.

"Plans have been made to develop it for use as a training base, with work to start within a month," the letter said.

"These activities will be so widespread and dangerous to persons ashore as to preclude the possibility of setting aside a small portion of the island for other purposes."

SERA TO DROP TRANSIENT AID

State Emergency Relief administration headquarters here were awaiting today complete information on the ultimatum that the state and federal government will not care for unemployed transients after Sept. 20.

Terrence Halloran, SERA head here, said he understands that the government's policy will be to provide only emergency aid for transients on a temporary basis. After that they will have to find other support or accept government assistance in returning to their permanent residences, Mr. Halloran said.

In the past two weeks seven such transients have been sent back to their homes by the SERA here, he reported.

The transient problem in Orange county is not a serious one, however, as most of these cases go to the larger cities, Mr. Halloran explained.

The federal and state emergency relief administrations will maintain those who were being cared for prior to Aug. 1, until they get jobs with the Works Progress administration, but new transients will have to take care of themselves, it was announced at SERA headquarters in San Francisco. Exhaustion of federal funds for this service was given as the reason for the ultimatum.

RELIEF 'SHIFT' IS FELT HERE

The county committee of the State Emergency Relief administration yesterday felt the effect of the federal government's move to shift the direct relief burden to local agencies. In view of the exhaustion of federal funds for certain emergency direct relief cases, the committee authorized use of $2000 from the county's share of state unemployment relief bonds.

When new cases are accepted by the SERA, there often is a period of several days before the first relief check arrives, it was explained by Terrence Halloran, SERA director. The government has been providing emergency relief in such instances, but now has ceased this practice, Mr. Halloran said. This leaves the burden on the county committee. At Mr. Halloran's request he was authorized to use up to $2000 of state bond money for this emergency.

The money is expected to cover the period until the Works Progress administration gets under way, providing work for the unemployed.

City of Orange is Busy Constructing Park on 17 Acres of Creek Property

(This is the first of a series of articles having to do with the development of Orange's system of parks, potential beauty spots and recreational institutions of Southern California. The series is intended to be informative to those cities which do not enjoy park facilities. Santa Ana is listed in the latter classification.)

By ROCH BRADSHAW

The city of Orange is making five acres of gravel blossom into a 17-acre park.

To begin with, what the city had was the five acres of gravel bearing land and a desire for a park. The five acres of gravel were located in the Santiago creek near the East Chapman street bridge.

Obviously the five acres of gravel couldn't be made into much of a park. But just east of the Glassell street bridge on the south side of the city was a 17-acre region that belonged to the Consolidated Rock and Gravel company. The city's five acres were more productive of gravel, and the rock company's 17 acres made a better park site. And so the city and the rock company traded.

Work Began 3 Years Ago

Even the 17 acres didn't look much like a park to begin with. The property was uneven. Holes had been used as receptacles for old automobile bodies and other junk. Piles of broken concrete were strewn about. But the makings of a park were there and the city of Orange set about achieving the transformation.

The first work started about three years ago, even before the old Civil Works administration got into action. The initial job was to level the park site. The work got under way, and at times there were as many as 175 men engaged on the project with wheelbarrows and shovels. Not only was Orange building a park; it also was providing employment for its residents who were in need of jobs.

Deepen Flood Channel

One of the next important steps was to provide a means of controlling the storm flow of Santiago creek, which has a channel along the edge of the park area. The channel, it is estimated, covers about three acres, while the region for park development covers 14 acres.

As it exists today, the channel is about 100 feet wide, with easily sloping banks. Just south of its center is a deeper bed that has been prepared to carry storm waters from an ordinary rain. Rock walls have been built to keep any larger flow in its course. Stone and gravel from the creek bed itself were used in constructing these walls, at a considerable saving of expense.

With this work done, the city was ready to proceed with its plans for making a real park. There was still landscaping to do and recreational projects to be created. Orange was ready to make a creek bed blossom into a park which could serve the needs of the community.

CONTINUANCES IN OIL CASES

Continuances until October 10 were granted yesterday in the cases of three oil companies seeking permanent injunctions against state allotments, padlocking of wells and posting guards on oil property. The continuances were granted by Judge G. K. Scovel, acting as presiding judge in the absence of Judge James L. Allen.

The three companies, the Wilshire Oil, Ambassador Petroleum and Beloil corporation, have petitioned the courts to make permanent the temporary restraining orders preventing limitation of oil production from the state-owned tidelands pool at Huntington Beach and further padlocking of wells in the tidelands area.

The petitions were based on charges that the allotment of production quotas were not dictated by the state but by the central committee of California Oil Producers and enforced through threats by two major oil companies that they would launch a price war if such curtailment were not ordered by the state.

SET DATE FOR SALE OF SCHOOL BONDS

Naming October 1 as the sale date, the board of supervisors yesterday adopted a resolution calling for bids in the recently approved Fullerton elementary school district $156,000 bond issue. The bonds are in $1000 blocks and will be retired in 15 years.

The board adjourned until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock when it will reconvene to discuss the flood control project.

NEEDY TO GET CLINIC WORK

Dental and optical work for 72 persons, costing $2651.66, was approved yesterday by the county committee of the State Emergency Relief administration. The treatment program is provided for in a project approved by the state several months ago.

The dental work, for 44 persons, will cost $2405. Twenty-five dentists participate in the program. This type of treatment is given to men on rolls of the State Emergency Relief administration, and their wives. It is done as an emergency or health measure, Terrence Halloran, director, told the committee.

Optical work, chiefly providing glasses, was approved for 28 persons, and will cost $246.66, Mr. Halloran said. This treatment is given only to employable persons and not to their wives, the idea being that while need for eye correction may not be a public health measure, proper eyesight does affect ability to work.

POETRY SECTION OPENS SEASON AT BALBOA ISLAND

Opening its year, the new poetry section of Santa Ana Woman's club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. J. Edmund Snow presiding, in the home of Mrs. J. D. Watkins on Balboa Island.

Standing rules for the section were adopted in the business session.

Mrs. J. Bohlander was appointed program chairman.

Mrs. R. W. Cole joined the section.

The following members gave original contributions of poems based on a "vacation" theme: Mrs. E. G. Warner, who read a beautiful and an inspirational poem, "Nature's Symphony"; Mrs. Earl Ladd, "Summer Vacation"; Mrs. R. A. McMahon, "My Dream Ship"; Mrs. J. D. Watkins, "My Best Vacation", and Mrs. J. Edmund Snow, "Wanderings".

Mrs. Earl M. Waycott read an interesting article, "What Is Poetry?"

After the meeting a delightful luncheon was served in the patio of the Watkins home.

The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Minnie Collins, 210 E. Santa Clara. The subject of the meeting will be "Autumn," written in couplet form.

NEW APPEAL FOR MRS. MADISON DUE

LOS ANGELES. — Striving to save Mrs. Nellie Madison from death on the gallows on Oct. 4 for the slaying of her husband, Eric Madison, William J. Brown, Los Angeles attorney, today planned to file a new appeal with the state supreme court.

Brown said the petition would claim that whereas only recently she admitted killing her husband in self-defense, defense testimony at her trial a year ago contended that she had no knowledge of the slaying, and that the victim was not her husband.

HAYS HEARS MADAM SCHUMANN-HEINK 'STOLEN'

HOLLYWOOD. — Will Hays, chief of the Motion Picture Producers' association, turned mediator today in an attempt to settle a row over the signing of Madam Ernestine Schumann-Heink, "the grand old lady of the opera," for the movies.

Jesse Lasky, newly associated with Mary Pickford to produce pictures, lodged a "star raiding" complaint with Mr. Hays because M. C. Levee, acting for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, signed the noted diva to a contract after she had appeared in a "bit part" in a Lasky-produced film.

Great Interest Displayed in Santa Ana Community Players New Production

Second Tryout Slated For Tomorrow

'Bellamy Trial' May Be Staged in Courtroom, Harry Hanson Says

With more than 30 individuals trying out for parts in "The Bellamy Trial," a second tryout meeting slated for tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in The Barn, and the possibility of staging the play in an actual courtroom announced by Players' President Harry L. Hanson, Santa Ana Community Players association swung into another enthusiastic season last night at its first 1935-36 meeting in The Barn. Mr. Hanson opened the meeting.

Choice of Franklin West as the prosecuting attorney and Robert Guild as Patrick Ives was all the casting accomplished last night by the casting committee including Gladys Simpson Shafer, director, and John Colwell, J. Leslie Steffensen, Lois Rees Auer and Mona Summers Smith.

Additional dramatics-minded individuals are to be heard tomorrow. Permission must be granted by the board of supervisors for the play to be given in a courtroom, as has been done in Santa Barbara, Beverly Hills, Glendale, University of Texas and other places by players groups.

Before the tryouts, Leslie Steffensen, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Steffensen, sang "Over the Steepe" and "Roses and You," and as an encore in response to insistent applause, "The Green-Eyed Dragon."

Mona Summers Smith scored a triumph in her reading of John Van Druten's play, "The Distaff Side." Her audience gave her the tribute of complete silence throughout the entire reading, and afterward, a prolonged applause.

Mrs. Steffensen, Mrs. R. Carson Smith and Mrs. Wendell Finley served steaming hot coffee and sandwiches late in the evening.

As soon as your day lilies (hemerocallis) are through blooming, divide the clumps. The day lilies are very satisfactory for a perennial border, as their blooming season is long and the leaves do not turn yellow quickly.

If your lawn is infested with crab-grass, try raking it before mowing. Raking lossens the stolons and they are more easily cut.

Right now is the time to plant Mariposa tulips in your garden. For your wild flower garden there is nothing lovelier, and seeds and bulbs can be obtained from nurseries specializing in natives. Some of the California iris are very nice additions to your iris beds. Several varities of California iris have been transplanted into eastern gardens and have lived through severe winters. I have seen long slopes covered with Iris Longipetala, and the blossoms gently waving in the breeze looked like an undulating sea of lavendar.

* * *

The red geranium in my kitchen windowbox are just about through blooming for the season, so next week I'll cut them back, and in a few weeks, fresh green shoots will start. Soon there'll be another crop of bright blooms. Red, color of victory, truly applies to geraniums, for no matter how they are treated or cut back, they come forth again, aflame with color. Plebian, perhaps, but I do like geraniums, and the bright orange of Mexim Kovelesky is a color not often seen in flowers.

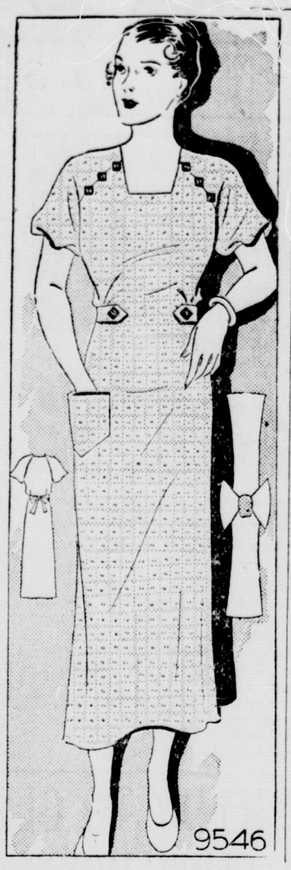

Every year in Florence, Italy, a great flower show is held and all the flowers displayed are sold. Each day, the space made vacant by the disposal of plants and flowers is refilled, and on the last day throngs of people attend, as everything is sold at a bargain.

The left-over flowers at the horticulture shows in Boston are sorted, made into baskets and bouquets, and sent to hospitals. These ideas might be tried at some of our club flower shows.

COURTESY NIGHT IS OBSERVED BY SANTA ANA O. E. S.

Observing annual courtesy night, officers of Santa Ana chapter, Order of Eastern Star, surrendered their chairs to visiting officers from chapters in the 56th and 57th districts, at their meeting in the Masonic temple Monday night.

Bob Bunch, Orange, presided as worthy patron and Inez Orton, 57th district deputy grand matron, took the post of worthy matron.

Mrs. H. H. Dimmitt, worthy matron of Santa Ana chapter, and T. S. Hunter, worthy patron, headed the line of matrons and patrons escorted east. The group included Jesse Cox, Brea; Lavisea Whitney, Artesia; Venla Shrewsbery, Laguna; Ethel Schauers, Garden Grove; Vera Jacoby of Hermosa chapter, Santa Ana; Lillian Edwards of Scepter chapter, Orange; Ethel Bruce of Chispa chapter, Anaheim; Gladys Welton and Ray Green, Fullerton; Mary Zigler and Clarence Orton of Seaside chapter, Huntington Beach; Eunice Thurman and Harry Ledley, Yorba Linda; Herbert Hunt, Buena Park; William Gamble of Amatai chapter, Fullerton; nine past matrons and five past patrons.

Courtesy officers were introduced by officers of the hostess chapter. Short talks of appreciation were made by the presiding officers and Jessie Todd, marshal of Huntington Beach, who spoke for the other guest executives.

Receptions will be held this month for Grand Ruth Winnie Mae Dean at the Masonic temple tonight; for Ruth De Buxton, deputy grand matron of 56th district, Sept. 13 at Norwalk; and for Inez Orton, deputy grand matron of 57th district, Sept. 30 in the Masonic temple here.

Tables had been decorated to simulate circus scenes. The committee included Mesdames T. H. Hunter, Carlyle Dennis, Aschel Hardy, Ray Wyckoff, Courtney Chandler and Glenn Lycan.

Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Augusta Whisennan, assisted by Mrs. Hugh Whisennan, Mrs. Joseph Hamblet, Mrs. Albert Darthe, Mrs. O. H. Holmes, Mrs. Grace Couvillon, Ray Snyder, Henry Walters, Courtney Chandler and Harvey Dimmitt.

JOHN SHAW HOME IN MOUNTAINS POPULAR PLACE

The mountain home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Shaw of 714 West Eighth street, in Valley View park near Crestline, San Bernardino mountains, is a very popular place with their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw just returned yesterday morning from the mountains, after spending three weeks there. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kintz of Santa Ana visited them recently.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS CLEO BARRESS TOLD BY MOTHER

Mrs. Emma Barress of 430 West Second street announces the engagement of her daughter, Cleo, to Walter F. Malec, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Malec of Springfield, Mass.

Miss Barress attended the Santa Ana grammar schools. Anaheim High school and Fullerton District Junior college. Her fiance was educated in the east and now is employed in Long Beach.

No wedding date has been set.

LENORA FARMER WELCOMED HOME AT MAGNOLIA R. N. A.

What members of Magnolia chapter, R. N. A., could do to make Mrs. Lenora Farmer, oracle, feel at home after two-months vacation in the East, was featured on the program at their meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Gertrude Birt, vice oracle, presented the executive with a corsage of red rosebuds. As a surprise, Mrs. Birt was given a corsage by Mrs. Daisy Scott for her leadership during the absence of the oracle.

Autumn flowers and festoons were used to decorate the hall. Mrs. Lenore Fletcher, district deputy, from Long Beach, explained the membership campaign for the coming season. Teams under purple and white banners are to be chosen and directed by the oracle and vice oracle of each chapter.

Initiation services were conducted for Mrs. Olive Cropsey. The committee for the next two months will include Mrs. Pearl Laub, Mrs. Alma Knowlton, Mrs. Lenora Farmer, Ashley Knowlton, Dean Laub and John Sadler.

Mrs. Rosa Hall won the gift of the evening. Refreshments were served.

QUESTORS CHOOSE NEW OFFICERS AT POT-LUCK SUPPER

Questors of the First Methodist church chose new officers Monday night following a pot-luck supper which they held in the dinette of the church.

Margaret Davis was named president; Joy Townsley, vice president; Ruth Budd, secretary; Jessie Faires, treasurer; Alice McKee, mite box secretary; Barbara Speed, corresponding secretary; Mary Lou Faires, supplies secretary; Vivian Vale, assistant supplies secretary; Isabel McCormac, stewardship secretary; Barbara Tillotson, press reporter.

Betty Jean Corry, Ruth Ames and Mary Lou Mann were admitted as new members, while June Corry and Lucille Chandler and June Winget of Orange were guests.

Devotionals during the evening were led by Jessie Faires. Miss Ethel Coffman made the prayer, and Joy Townsley conducted the candlelight service. Reports on the Queen Esther camp at Idylwild were made by Vivian Vale, Mary Lou Faires and Marjorie Randall.

Others present were Barbara Tillotson, Mary Alice Tillotson, Irene Williams, Maxine Williams, Pauline Williams, Barbara Speed, Barbara Davis, Isabel McCormac, Dorothy Grace, Mrs. C. D. Grace, Mrs. Warren Freeman and Mrs. C. W. Davis.

WHAT COULD YOU DO WITH EXTRA HELP?

When you want to go away for an evening what do you do with the baby?

Call Miss Lula Finley at 306, Santa Ana High school, or Mrs. Robert Northcross at 1706, Santa Ana Junior college, and ask her to get you a girl to stay at your house for the evening. That is the answer for those who want to solve the problem easily.

Both of the counselors have a file of responsible, efficient girls who can stay with children, wash the dishes, do light housework, and assist in other ways. Many of them need work if they are to complete their school courses.

Heads Named At W.C.T.U. Meet

Electing Mrs. Amy Evans and Mrs. J. H. Nicholson temporary president and vice president, respectively, the W. C. T. U. chose its staff of executives for the coming year at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the First Methodist church.

The two leading offices will be filled permanently at later dates, since both the executives felt they would be unable to assume them for the entire year.

Mrs. Mina Tidball was named second vice president, Mrs. Rena Gibson recording secretary, Mrs. Emma Wilson assistant secretary, Mrs. Edna Leonard treasurer, and Mrs. Mary Wager assistant treasurer.

Committees Named

Anticipating the county convention which will be held in the First Methodist church Thursday and Friday, Sept. 19 and 20, the following committees were appointed: Miss Sadalia Cubbison, ushers; Mrs. Edna Leonard and Mrs. Mary Wager, entertainment; Mrs. Edith Moore, decorations; Mrs. Louise Brokaw, courtesy; Mrs. Anna Scott and Mrs. Effie Nicholson, registration.

Delegates who will represent the Santa Ana organization include Mrs. Artie Warner, Mrs. Louise Brokaw, Mrs. Cozad, Mrs. Laura Leonard, Mrs. Holderman, Mrs. Mary Wager, Mrs. Lena Leonard, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Emma Roberts, Mrs. Anna McGarvin, Mrs. Nora Davies, Mrs. Lydia Scharr. Mrs. Mellie Vance, Mrs. Rena Gibson, Mrs. Jesse Albright, Mrs. Edith Vase, Mrs. Anna Allen and Mrs. Theron Means.

A report on legislative and Christian citizenship was given by Miss Cubbison.

Mrs. Flatter Speaks

Mrs. Carrie Flatter of Xenia, Ohio, who has been a national W. C. T. U. worker and organizer of Ohio and Kansas, spoke to the group. Copies of her pamphlet on "Twelve Lessons on Cigarettes" were ordered purchased by the union for distribution to the public library, the junior high schools, and high school library.

Meetings throughout the year will be held the second Tuesday of each month in the First Baptist church, the group decided after voting thanks to the Methodist board for use of their church. Since this was the first meeting which Mrs. Evans had attended since her return from a summer spent in the East, she was given a special welcome by the group.

MRS. ROSCOE MOORE ENTERTAINS FAHOLO CLASS AT PARTY

Mrs. Roscoe Moore, 415 Eastwood avenue, was hostess Monday night to members of Faholo class of the First Baptist church when she entertained at a party.

Hostesses with her were Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mrs. Leah Elliott and Mrs. J. Wells Brown.

Bowls of single pink asters and baby's breath had been arranged for decorations.

Late developments in Abyssinia were related by Miss Edna Ingham for the devotional hour. During the evening the group prepared a quilt for Indian work in Arizona.

Salad and sandwiches were served at the close of the evening.

Present were Mesdames Clyde Cave, Roy Siden, J. F. Maclain, Earl Toles, Robert Talley, J. Middleton, L. G. Rowell, J. C. Johnson, L. E. Platt and Homer Stewart, a guest from Texas, and the Misses Vera Coad, Ruth Coad, Ruth Sanford, Ella Vezie, Mildred Marchant, Laura Joiner and Edna Ingham.

BETTY LOU RANUM SURPRISED ON HER NINTH ANNIVERSARY

Betty Lou Ranum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ranum of South Garnsey street, was surprised on occasion of her ninth birthday anniversary, Monday afternoon, by a party at which her mother honored her.

The young guests played games. Later, Mrs. Ranum served a candle-decked birthday cake and ices at a prettily-appointed table.

Others present were Lois Bogardus, Mabel Casteix, Mary Judden, Mary and Teddy Nicholson, Shirley Eadon, Betty Lee Millis, Jacqueline Townsend and the honoree's baby brother, Kenneth Ranum.

G. S. COUNCIL HAS OPENING MEETING

Discussing plans for the year, four members of the executive council of Santa Ana Girl Scouts met last night at the Scout house on South Parton, opening the season for scout activities.

An over-night camp was suggested, and tentative appointments made to the community chest committee. Present were Mrs. A. W. Rutan, president; Mrs. Paul Bailey, Mrs. Ray Snyder and Mrs. R. C. Harris.

SPURGEON P.-T. A. LEADERS TO MEET

Executives of the Spurgeon Parent-Teacher association will meet at 2 p. m. Friday at the home of the president, Mrs. R. E. Steinberger, 820 South Ross street.

Plans will be made for the first meeting which will be held Tuesday, Sept. 17, as a reception for new teachers.

Past Leaders Of S. A. Club Open Year

Members of the Santa Ana Woman's club Past Presidents' group opened the new year by meeting yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Emma Mosbaugh on North Broadway, and heard a delightful travelog by Mrs. Charles Stanley, one of their number.

Mrs. William Whitehead conducted a preliminary business session, in which Mrs. Jacob Bohlander initiated Mrs. R. G. Carman, junior past president, into the club.

Mrs. Stanley, who with her two daughters spent a number of months in travel this year, told incidents and impressions concerning their journey through the Panama canal, Cuba, Boston, Baltimore, New York city, thence to France, England and Scotland. She mentioned the spirit of permanence prevalent in England, and told of being at her old home in London for the first time in 45 years.

The past presidents will meet again on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at the home of Mrs. William Welis, 2218 Greenleaf street.

Mrs. Stanley poured, and Mesdames C. F. Crose, Anna Gale and Ruth Tiffany assisted Mrs. Mosbaugh in serving homemade cakes, brick ice cream and coffee.

Mrs. Sara Ward was present as a guest of Mrs. Mosbaugh. Other members present were Mesdames James Clark, F. H. Finney, Lovisa Leslie, M. C. Williams, W. H. Kuhn and J. D. Watkins.

OUT-OF-DOOR MEETS START FALL SEASON FOR W. W. GUILD

World-wide Guild members of the First Baptist church opened the fall season last night with outdoor meetings. The Ashmore circle and Viola Hill chapter met at Jack Fisher park, while Mrs. James F. B. Richards, advisor of the Naomi Fletcher section, was hostess to that group in the gardens of her home at 721 South Birch street.

An iced cake was a surprise treat from Mrs. George Stevens, director of White Cross work at the meeting in Jack Fisher park. Miss Mildred Marchant, sponsor, reviewed the guild convention she attended early in the summer at Colorado Springs.

Vacations and plans for the year were discussed informally under direction of Mrs. H. Raymond Smith, leader of the Ashmore circle. The girls preceded their meeting with a hamburger grill and weenie bake supper.

Others present were Ruth Lockett, Doris Cave, Barbara Rowell, Joan Bray, Lenora Marchant, Helen Latham, Rosemary Harp, Dorothy Van Horn, Genevieve Reed, Betty DeWolfe, Elizabeth Hays, Mrs. Rollo Hays and C. A. Harp, who arranged the fire for the girls and brought a group of them to the park.

At Mrs. Richards' home were Pauline Cave, Grace Jenkins, Evelyn Richards, Helen Lowe, Roberta Nichols and Jane Nalle.

JOB'S DAUGHTERS TO CONTINUE SINGING PARTIES

Continuing their series of singing parties, Job's Daughters decided at their meeting last night in the Masonic temple to have another of the events at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 21, at the home of Miss Helen Pierce, 1306 South Birch street.

A date for the kid party which will be held soon was not set.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mary Crowe, chairman, Eloise Hiskey, Helen Meyer, Charlotte McCausland and Margaret Abel.

Yesterday noon, the Mothers' circle met at the home of Mrs. E. N. Pierce on South Birch for luncheon. Present were Mrs. George Wheeler, Mrs. C. F. Carlson, Mrs. Harry Crowe, Mrs. Claude McFarren, Mrs. Leslie Pearson, the hostess, and her daughter, Helen.

BONDS HAVE GUESTS OVER WEEK-END

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Bond, 1321 South Van Ness street, were entertained at dinner in Anaheim park Saturday night and by a trip through the Placentia Mutual Orange packing house.

Mrs. Mary Isenhart, her daughter, Mrs. Shirley Eiler, Mrs. Miller and her daughters from Lancaster, and Walter Isenhart, Stilwell, Okla., who is in Southern California for a two-week visit, were the guests entertained.

Men Turn to Someone Who Will Inflate an Ego, Which Lack of Finances Has Crushed

By MARY STODDARD

Many of us are inclined toward the policy of "take the cash and let the credit go."

That is a pretty good policy to follow as regards business deals. But should we apply the same thing to those we love? If a man is a fairly good husband, but has "never really made good" as far as finances are concerned, should we regard him as an absolute failure?

Today, when women seem more fortunate in drawing down a pay check than a man, the question often pops up through this column.

Recently it was put by a girl who signed herself "Disillusioned." She has a good position and has been engaged several years to a young man she loves and who gives her every reason to believe that he loved her until recently. She learned that he stepped out with another girl. When she questioned him, he said he didn't know why he did it, but that he loved her and everything would be all right if they could marry at once.

Their wedding date has been set several times, but put off because of lack of finances. She wrote asking advice as to whether she should just try to forget him, or go on with the marriage.

Reader Helps

Here is an answer to her problem:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I would like to take part in the problem of "Disillusioned." Let's not call it that, but rather a study in psychology.

Men are in truth only grown-up little boys and must feel superior to mere woman.

Your marriage, "Disillusioned," has not materialized on account of finances which really means he was unable to make the grade. He feels this, and it has had a tendency to force on him an inferiority complex which he, consciously or unconsciously, resents.

You have a steady job and maybe have made the great mistake of giving him financial aid, which has further deflated his ego.

He possibly does "not know why he did certain things," but if he were honest with himself he feels he regained a pedestal he wants to occupy in eyes of "inferior" woman—(in the eyes of HIS woman.)

He's Not Tin God

If men could only realize it is as hard for a girl who has endured a long engagement to clothe her sweetheart in illusion—as it is for a wife to be unaware her husband is only a human being—after all. And so very often when a wife or sweetheart takes a man at his earned value rather than the one he wishes them to place on him, he is all ready to join the "Misunderstood club" and falls easy prey to the blandishments and flattery of other women.

I believe this is one of the chief causes of many marital rifts.

Some woman comes along and tells them "how wonderful they are" and how young they look—then they begin to preen themselves and the idea takes root.

"My wife or sweetheart doesn't appreciate me. I'm really a pretty swell guy."

So the wife who has listened to him snore, and the sweetheart who has stood staunch, are just a little passe.

Sometimes it's only a foolish gesture, and sometimes they wonder if their place isn't in the pasture with the colts. And underneath it all is the suppressed fear—they are growing old.

He loves you, "Disillusioned," but he just HAD to polish up that ego. Forget it, completely.

WHO'S WHO.

Laguna Hotel Setting For Luncheon

Mrs. Aldric H. Worswick and Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch shared the hostess honors yesterday at a pleasantly informal bridge luncheon which they gave in the sunroom of Hotel Laguna, overlooking the crescent beachline of "Our Village."

Summer flowers were used on the luncheon table.

In the contract play following the dinner hour, Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank and Mrs. Joseph H. Metzgar won high score awards.

Attractive pieces of Franciscan Pottery were given as prizes.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

What do you think of the idea of hobbies for children?

Mrs. Fred Wilson: I think that often a hobby develops an interest for the child that perhaps he will follow all the rest of his life. It's a fine thing for every child to have a hobby.

Mrs. Juanita Wallace Lake: It's a worth-while interest and keeps children from wasting their time. Often, hobbies lead to careers in later life.

Dr. Hester Olewiler: Any hobby will occupy the child's mind and keep it active and working rapidly. He can follow a hobby as far as he likes, and when he reaches the end, can let go and start in on something further along. Hobbies are good indications to the parent as to what predominates in the child's nature and interests.

DELTA CHI SIGMA COMPLIMENTS LUCILLE CRAWFORD

Delta Chi Sigma complimented one of its members, Miss Lucille Crawford, who will leave Sept. 22 for U. S. C. to study law, at a meeting Monday evening in the home of Miss Marie McGinnis, 1315 South Ross street.

Miss McGinnis gave a dinner before the sorority session, and miniature S. C. pennants waved rampant over the card tables at which the two-course menu was served. A handkerchief shower provided another surprise for the honoree.

Miss Mary Alyce White as auctioneer sold to the highest bidder a series of "white elephants." Proceeds from the sale went into the club treasury.

Miss Lorene Shipe conducted the business session.

Others present were Misses Betty Niedergall, Peggy Tadlock, Charlene Kyte, Vivian White, Carol Smith, Helen Manderscheid, Martha Sharpley, Ruth Souder and Frances Roberts and Mesdames Julien Lecrivain (Donna Crawford) and Lloyd Manderscheid (Winifred Schneider), members, and Mrs. Colene Braden, guest.

FOLK DRAMA NOW BEING PRODUCED AT PLAYHOUSE

"Doc Lincoln," American folk play dealing with the activities of a guardian angel in an industrial town, is this week's new production at the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

Henry Kolker, last seen in "Men in White," plays the title roll in the play, whose cast also includes Clarence Muse, of "Porgy" fame. The cast numbers more than 40.

The Cook's Own Corner

The Journal wants to give its readers at least one tasty tried-and-true recipe each day.

OATMEAL BLACK WALNUT COOKIES

By Mrs. H. E. Switzler
711 South Birch street

Ingredients: 2½ cups of flour, 1¼ cups of sugar, 1 scant teaspoon ginger, 1 scant teaspoon cinnamon, 1 scant teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups oatmeal, 1½ cups raisins, 4 tablespoonful milk, 1 cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon lemon flavoring, ½ teaspoon black walnut flavoring, 2 beaten eggs.

Mix all dry ingredients and hollow out. Pour in milk, eggs, and melted butter and extracts. Mix and drop by heaping teaspoons on baking sheet, 1½ inches apart. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes in hot oven.

Mary Kathryn Olewiler Is Honored

Mary Kathryn Olewiler was honor guest at a gay party given by her mother, Dr. Hester Olewiler, at the family home on West Nineteenth street, in celebration of her sixth birthday anniversary.

Exciting peanut races, games of last-couple-out and drop the handkerchief were played, and prizes were distributed. Later, Dr. Olewiler served a party dessert course featuring an angelfood cake decked with a miniature candy merry-go-round and pink candles. An all-pink color scheme was used for the party.

Guests included Linda Huber, Mary Ann Smith, Mary Jane Robertson, Shirley Wimpey, Eleanor Skirvin and Donna Olewiler, Irving Johnson, Walter Louis Spicer, Tommy McFadden, Jimmy Gerkin and Terry Hammond.

PRIZES TO BE GIVEN AT LAST OF STORY HOURS

BUSY SESSION NETS GAINS IN STOCKS

New Year's Highs Again Are Reached by Some; Bulls Are Active

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP)—Bullishness grew fervid in the stock market today as speculation for the advance was switched in the laggard rail shares and trading swelled to large proportions.

Much of the list churned about without getting anywhere, particularly in some of the recently strong industrial groups, but several issues reached new highs for the year or longer with motors and accessories again actively bought. Favorable midweek trade statistics, moderate firmness in the cotton and grain markets, and a fairly steady tone in bonds, provided a favorable background for the bullish capers in the stock list.

Shares advancing around a point to new highs for the recovery included New York Central, Great Northern preferred, Chesapeake & Ohio, General Motors, Chrysler, and Radio preferred B. American Telephone reached a new peak with a fractional advance. Such low priced motors as Packard and Studebaker were again turned over in large volume fractionally higher.

Professional bullish activity in the rails was said to be based both on a belief that they were behind the market, and the hope that chart readers and other market technicians would take a more enthusiastic attitude toward the list, if the rails could be brought forward to "confirm" the advance in the industrials.

The New York traction issues dipped coincident with issuance of a statement by City Chamberlain Berle that prices of some I. R. T. issues were so far above what the city contemplates paying that it looked like manipulation and a matter for the S. E. C. to investigate.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. (AP)—The bull campaign in the stock market reached the proportions of a major drive today but forward progress was resisted by persistent selling.

Several issues, including rails, communications and motors, rose 1 to 4 points to new 1935 highs, but the advance was shaded somewhat by late selling. The list showed a strong undertone at the close, however, and transfers approximated 2,400,000 shares, making it one of the biggest days of the year. Closing prices follow:

Grain Market

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 11. (AP)—Setbacks of wheat values late today resulted from profit-taking and because of hedging sales.

Hedging proved burdensome in view of notable absence of any sustained speculative demand. It was current gossip, however, that a good export business had been witnessed in Canadian wheat.

Wheat closed irregular, 1 cent lower to ¾c higher, compared with yesterday's finish, December 93-93¾c; corn ¾c off to ⅞c up, December 57c, at ¼c decline to ¼c advance, and provisions varying from 15 cents' decline to a rise of 7 cents.

OPEN FIGHT ON SALES TAX

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 11. (AP)—A group of business men were set today to begin a fight in court to declare California's new 3 per cent sales tax act with foodstuffs exempt unconstitutional.

Clifford Russell, lawyer for the group, said he will file a petition before the supreme court in San Francisco asking a writ of review of the decision of the board of equalization revoking the business license of Dan Dicktakes, Sacramento cafe owner.

The restaurant men will charge that exemption of foodstuffs on bulk sales of groceries but imposition of it upon restaurant meals is discriminatory legislation. The action was brought to a head when Mr. Dicktakes refused to pay a 3 per cent sales tax but offered the board a remittance at 2 per cent.

DIESEL ENGINE TO GET TEST

Passing another milestone in the dramatic history of "railroading," the Santa Fe Railway is preparing for a series of gruelling tests for the new, powerful Diesel locomotive recently purchased from the Electro-Motive Corporation, according to Norman M. Smith, local passenger agent for the company.

If the proposed tests fulfill expectations of company officials, the locomotive will be used to haul the line's "crack" flier, The Chief, between Chicago and Los Angeles.

The big Diesel engine is, in effect, two locomotives, since it consists of two identical units that can be operated singly or coupled together. These units are arranged for double-end operation, with an operator's cab or control station at each end. From these control stations the driver is afforded a clear view ahead and on both sides of the track.

Motive power for each unit of the locomotive is supplied by two Winton V-type 12-cylinder high compression two-cycle oil engines. Since each engine is conservatively rated at 900 horsepower, the two units provide a total of 3600 horsepower.

The engines are extremely light, weighing less than 20 pounds per horsepower. The fuel used is a comparatively inexpensive Diesel fuel oil, 1600 gallons of which can be carried.

RITES HELD FOR E. L. DOHENY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11. (AP)—Sorrowing members of the family and intimate associates gathered today in St. Vincent's church for the final rites to Edward L. Doheny, 79-year-old oil man.

Requiem high mass was sung by Most Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of the diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego, assisted by Most Rev. Francis C. Kelley, Oklahoma City, friends of the multimillionaire.

The casket was placed temporarily, in a crypt in Calvery cemetery.

Mr. Doheny, who found and produced millions of barrels of oil in the United States and Mexico, and whose activities in 1922 made him a key figure in the Elk Hills oil lease scandals of the Harding administration, died at his estate here Sunday night.

EDISON WOMEN SEE HOW MRS. JONES, MRS. SMITH TALK

Hello, is that you, Mabel?"

If it were you, you only heard a voice.

The Edison Women's committee members went you one better last night when at their first fall meeting they were taken for a tour of the Southern California Telephone company's Santa Ana offices. They saw your calls in the making.

William M. Wells, district manager of the telephone company, arranged the visit. Three instructors, Mrs. Wanda Braden, Miss Alsup and Mrs. Rogers explained the intricacies of local and long distance telephone calls, demonstrating electricity's important part in the prompt and efficient service of the modern telephone system.

After the plant visit, the committee held a short business meeting at the Edison office. The new staff of officers was inducted, including Mary Belle Adams, chairman; Josephine Hodson, associate chairman; Lela Hughes, recording secretary; Rose Rauscher, corresponding secretary; Faye Bortz, treasurer, and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Young, librarian.

Standing committees for the year were named as follows: Home service bureau, Lela Hughes, Virginia Miller and Marjorie Berkner; inter-club relations, Willeta Reid, Nema Teague and Faye Bortz; benevolence, Thelma Leonard, Theresa Nussbaum and Irene Marie Drott; first aid, Ruth Wood, Josephine Hodson and Dorothy Rose Young; speakers bureau, Kathryn Logan, Lilah Esmay and Jo Herman, library bureau, Faye Bortz, Anna Tiemann and Olive Lund; publicity, Anne Glotzbach, Rose Rauscher and Adwain Smith; debates and dramatics, Elizabeth Millen, Amber Andersgaard and Cora McGuire; sunshine, Ruth Wood and Elizabeth Millen, and year book, Lela Hughes, Dorothy Rose Young, Anne Glotzbach and Nema Teague.

Refreshments were served, and the meeting adjourned.

The October meeting will be in charge of the home service bureau.

Huey Long Didn't Care For That Title 'Kingfish'

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 11. (AP) — The sobriquet "Kingfish" slipped up on Huey Long.

He adopted it as a joke from a radio program and immediately his friends seized upon it and labeled him "Kingfish" Long.

Senator Long never did like the title and at one time was heard to remark:

"Kingfish, Hell. I'm no fish. I'm gonna get me a title with something like lion and tiger in it."

But he never succeeded in escaping the title "Kingfish."

ESCAPE TRY NETS GAIN IN TROUBLE TO LOCAL PRISONER

When Refugio Amador, 27, alias Salvador Brezano, escaped from Harry Prichard, Santa Ana police officer, yesterday morning, he jumped into more grief than he had expected. The break for freedom took place in front of the county jail as Officer Prichard was preparing to book Amador following his conviction in the Santa Ana justice court on charge of drunkenness. City Judge J. G. Mitchell had sentenced him to seven and one-half days in jail.

As Amador started his attempt at freedom, Officer Prichard fired a shot over his head, hoping to scare him. The fleeing man, however, ran faster, and was finally caught in a vacant garage in the rear of a residence at 711 North Main street.

Upon returning to jail, officers asked him why he had attempted to escape. He told them he was wanted here for violation of the immigration laws. Investigation disclosed that in 1931 he had been arrested in Los Angeles for non-support; later escaped from a road camp; was re-arrested in 1932 and sentenced to San Quentin; and was paroled in 1933, and deported to Mexico.

Amador entered the United States again in June, this year. He told officers he came here hoping to find his wife and three children.

T. W. ANDREWS TO ATTEND CONVENTION OF FOOD STORES

Thomas W. Andrews, Santa Ana, is preparing to leave Sunday for Spokane, Wash., where he will attend the annual Pacific coast convention of the Red and White Food stores, Sept. 16 and 17. He was chosen to represent Orange county stores at a recent meeting of the managers.

In addition to the retail members who will attend the convention, representatives of Smart and Final company, Southern California sponsors of the Red and White stores, will attend the conference.

The annual convention of the Red and White stores is a regular part of the organization program and is held for the purpose of instructing local independent merchants who make up the group, in the latest methods of store operation, advertising and merchandising. It is the duty of each delegate to make a complete written report of the entire convention for the benefit of members who are unable to attend, and to recommend any changes which they deem important for the improvement of the organization.

The People

FOR A CLEAN CITY

Editor The Journal: Continuing the subject of sanitation in eating places—what about the gutters in front of the same places? It is quite general all over town that scrub water is dumped into the gutters to wait for the sun to dry it up.

A person walking along the streets of a morning has this filth to step into or over. Are we sanitary?

I think any eating place can be pretty well marked for sanitation by the appearance of the outside, and a stroll along the alley where garbage cans stand, will soon tell us about "what is beyond the door."

Yours for a clean city,

L. J. S.

WORKERS CLUB REPUDIATED

Editor The Journal: In the leaflet called the Pick and Shovel under date of Sept. 2 last, there is an article stating the Central Labor Council urges the Workers clubs to boycott products of the California Milling company for practices unfair to labor.

I happen to be one of the executive board and know this is not true. I speak as an individual, but know whereof I speak; also that they elected delegates to our picnic at Irvine park. I cannot see how any group can send delegates to any picnic when we do not recognize the so-called Workers club and do not have anything to do with them. We only recognize chartered unions and they are affiliated with the A. F. of L., and the Central Labor Council is the A. F. of L. in Orange county.

Therefore the statements in the leaflet are false and misleading to the public. We do not have anything to do with the Workers clubs in this county, or any communistic movements. Hoping you will let the public know the truth through your paper, I am yours truly,

B. MILLIGAN, Orange.

P. S.—I speak as an individual, not for the Central Labor Council but as president of the above union.

WALKER LEAVES $170,000

CUT IN CROP PROSPECTS FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—The agriculture department today noted sharp reductions in crop prospects during August but foresaw no shortage either of food or feed supplies.

In its September 1 estimate of conditions, the board said an ample supply of most food crops seemed assured, with certain classes of wheat the only important exceptions. Further rust damage was reported to have lowered the wheat estimate by 13,000,000 bushels, or 2 per cent.

The total wheat crop, estimated at 595,000,000 bushels, would be the third smallest since 1904, only the 1933 and 1934 drought years producing less.

The condition of citrus in Florida and other gulf states was reported considerably below average on Sept. 1 and the board said further damage was done by the tropical storm last week.

Potato production was estimated at 3 per cent smaller than last year but 3 per cent larger than the five-year average, despite a decline in August.

CHURCH CIRCLE TO MEET TOMORROW

Home-made ice cream and cake are promised to those who attend the lawn social of the Louise Aker circle of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church tomorrow night in the gardens of the parsonage at 912 Garfield street.

Serving will begin at 7:30 o'clock. A program will be presented.

Officer Angry; City Thieves Steal Brand New Car

On Monday afternoon he and his wife, Mrs. Edna Squires, went to Los Angeles. They drove in their brand new green sedan. Upon arriving in the city Mr. Squires parked the car in a downtown parking lot. When he returned at 10:30 p. m. the car was gone. It is still gone, and that is why Mr. Squires is angry.

After calling upon police to assist in finding the stolen car, Mr. Squires found that it was too late to catch a bus or a car to Santa Ana. He called friends, and the friends arranged to have Mr. and Mrs. Squires returned to their home.

"All in all," Mr. Squires remarked, "the incident was both embarrassing and annoying. Imagine, a cop, especially a state cop, having his car stolen."

HORTON MOVES RADIO DEPT.

As a matter of convenience, accessibility and comfort, and for improved demonstration purposes, the radio department at the J. C. Horton Furniture Company has been moved from the mezzanine to the main floor, according to George Horton, manager of the radio department.

The changes provide more room for studio reception. Special acoustic devices have been installed, and all of the accessories have been employed to give the reception the same as is used in a radio studio. In this environment the new 1936 R. C. A. Victor, the Zenith and Tiffany Tone radios will be demonstrated.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

HAVING just completed a tour of the country's key cities, Everett Hoagland, popular dance maestro with the younger set, parks his crew for an indefinite stay at the Casino Gardens in Ocean Park. For vocalists he has Eddie Bush's trio, Sue Ross and Beau Lee.

Hoagland, long a fixture of the southland, has never been accorded the just attention his musicianship deserves. We hope that this steady spot for local dancers, plus KFWB's coverage, will boost Hoagland's stock into the payoff class.

NEW TYPE GUEST ARTISTS

Joe Venuti, whose combination of star musicians has placed his orchestra in the top bracket in a few months, offers something new in the way of guest artists that we think you'll like.

Joe will select outstanding instrumentalists who have long been popular in the music world, but who are not generally known outside of their own craft.

The series is expected to start tonight, KFI-NBC, 6 o'clock.

VARIETY SHOW

Mrs. Al Jolson's sister, Marjorie Keeler, who recently made her professional debut at the Grove, will headline KMTR's "Varieties" at 9:30 o'clock.

In addition to Salvatore Santaella's orchestra, the half-hour broadcast will also feature Clayton Post, Bob Young, Leon Holmes and Nellie Nichols.

MOOD DETERMINES STORIES

Of his broadcast over KHJ at 8 o'clock, Kenneth Carroll Beaton says—"I come to the studio Wednesday night with half a dozen stories, and I never know until half an hour before going on the air just which ones I'll tell.

"It depends on the weather, current happenings, how I feel . . . I have to 'feel' the mood of each one or I can't tell it."

CRASH INJURES FILM ACTRESS

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 11. (AP)—Gertrude Michael, Hollywood motion picture actress, was in a critical condition at St. Bernardine hospital today, following an automobile accident here. Physicians said they believed she had a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Miss Michael, 23, formerly of Talladega, Ala., was returning to the film city from Lake Arrowhead when the automobile she was driving hit the rear of another car. The actress' machine then swerved into a tree.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Rex Moore hears the bitter news that Laurie is marrying her employer, Mark Albery, as soon as the pretended marriage of Laurie and Rex can be disposed of. Rex discusses his proposed Pacific flight with Albery, who commands most of the air routes of the world. Then he leaves Albery's office high up in a huge hangar, and almost falls through a hole in the catwalk. Rex and Albery stare at each other in horror.

Chapter 39
DISAPPOINTMENT

Across the six foot gulf, the two men looked at each other. Rex Moore had, in his miraculous act of saving himself, landed on the farther side.

"If anything had happened to you, my dear fellow, I should never have forgiven myself," said Albery. "I am responsible for my men."

"Oh, don't worry!" replied Rex; and, just to show that nothing had happened to him, he leaped over the opening and landed lightly by his employer's side. "You can give me another drink, if you like," he said. "I could do with one now. And then I'll get off to bed."

Mark Albery sat on in his chair for some time after the airman had gone.

There were papers in front of him on his desk, but he was not looking at them. There was a contemplative expression on his face. His eyes were almost shut.

The madness in his brain, fed by the accident, was increasing, was growing beyond control.

While Rex Moore was alive, Laurie would not give a thought to any other man. He knew that beyond a doubt.

If Rex Moore had fallen down on to the floor of the hangar, he would have been dead by now.

He would have been out of the way.

The next day Rex Moore again came up to Albery's office in the hangar, and laid on his employer's desk a little bundle of bank notes.

"This is the other half of the money you lent me," he said. "Thank you very much."

"You didn't take long paying it back, Rex," said Albery. He spoke with indulgence, and yet a touch of sarcasm. It was the first time he had called the airman by his Christian name. It seemed as if the accident of the night before had changed their relations.

"I've been lucky in getting several more articles to write," was the reply. "Journalism seems a paying game."

"When you're a public idol, certainly!" remarked Albery, with genial cynicism. "It's a different story when you've got nothing but your brains to sell. Try it, my boy, apart from flying!"

"I know all about that," was the young man's quick rejoinder. "I owe it all to you. I couldn't pay for my flights by writing about them."

"I have told you until I'm tired of it that you needn't worry about money," put in Albery complacently. Then, his voice changed. "You're worth far more than money, Rex. You're an asset—you belong to the nation—to England."

And, apart from the personal madness in his brain, he was speaking the truth. He needed this man more than he needed any man upon earth. And yet he wished him dead.

"Rex," he added earnestly, "I definitely want you to put off the Pacific flight. I'm sure it will be best for you, as well as for me, if you waint until we're quite certain about the new fuel. If it comes off, it'll be the biggest triumph for you. If it doesn't, you can do the flight all the same."

Rex Moore shrugged his shoulders; his angry mouth looked petulant as a child's. Bpt, of course, he did know what it would mean to him if the new fuel turned out a success. He would be the first man to fly at a speed hitherto believed impossible. Although he hated this inaction, he could not deny that it was worth waiting for.

"That's settled, then," said Albery. "By the way, I didn't sack any chap who left the trap open last night. You asked me not to, for one thing. And it turned out to be Flood, the foreman of the hangar, one of the men we could least spare. He was in a terrible state when I told him what might have happened to you."

"Yes, I've seen him," Rex replied carelessly. "He's a good fellow, I know. He seemed frightfully upset. And he said he had strained his arm rather badly and was afraid he couldn't manage the trap alone, and all the others had gone. I'm glad you didn't sack him, Mr. Albery. He won't do it again."

Rex Moore was in London on the following Sunday.

He rang up Mrs. Steele from the Chelsea flat, which he was still occupying, at Albery's urgent request, or, rather, command. Albery said it was necessary for their plans that Rex should use it when in London, after Laurie had left.

Rex did not want to see Mrs. Steele, but he could never get over his bad conscience where she was concerned. He had behaved to her with such rank ingratitude.

She was at home, and invited him to come to lunch, with that throb of emotion in her high-pitched voice that made him so uncomfortable.

"I thought I was never going to see you again," she said, when he arrived. But this time there was no reproach in her voice, only unshamed delight, which made him feel very small and unworthy.

He explained how busy he had been, as they sat in the sitting-room of her luxurious suite. And then, realizing that he might have had the decency ot pay her some slight attention, such as sending flowers, or an invitation to a meal and a show, he ended up awkwardly:

"I'm afraid I'm not fit for civilized life, Wanda. I must seem abominably ungrateful."

"My dear, I know how you only live for your job," she answered generously. "As long as you don't try to pay me back what you think you owe me with money! That hurts too much. I have a terror of opening a letter again, like that last one you sent me!"

Her eyes were misty; her large, eager red mouth trembled, as she gave him a smile of pathetic tenderness.

The man was touched.

They talked of all sorts of things over the delicious and light luncheon. Wanda skillfully led him to his own subjects. He told her about his preparations for the Pacific flight, and she said she would love to travel to South America with him on her way home. Perhaps she could arrange it, as he was having to postpone his departure.

He did not tell her about his accident of the middle of the week. For some reason that he did not quite understand, he would not allow himself to think of it. It was too fantastic, and at the same time too dull. He had looked death in the face many a time, but never in an ignominous way like that.

It was not until the end of the meal, when the coffee was bubbling in the glass globe on the table, and a box of cigars was laid by Rex's side before the waiters withdrew, that Wanda Steele asked him the question he had been waiting for.

"Is it true—what one hears, that you and your wife have parted?"

"How did you hear?"

"From several people I have met."

He gave a rather doleful laugh.

"I didn't think we were important enough."

"But, of course, you are, Rex! The public is wild for the slightest bit of news about you. I was very much surprised."

"Yes, it's true. You see, it—well, it wasn't fair to her. I mean my coming back like that. After all that time—without letting her know."

"You mean she wanted to leave you?"

"Of course. She was very sporting about it. She did her best."

"What are you going to do—get a divorce?"

"Yes. What else can we do?"

"I see! Wanda burst out indignantly. "And you'll take the blame, Rex, and she'll marry Albery."

"I am to blame," he said simply. "How did you know about Albery?"

"Anybody with eyes could see that he's crazy about her. And, of course, he's a great catch for a girl like that!"

She had slightly forgotten herself. She flushed and apologized. "I didn't mean anything against her, Rex. I know how chivalrous you are. And she seemed a nice, quiet little thing. But I can't help being quite angry with her for letting you down.

"She hasn't let me down, Wanda. Please, I'd rather not discuss it. We have agreed that it would be for the best to part."

Tomorrow, Rex commits himself—and his future.

SUNDOWN STORIES

PLANS

By Mary Graham Bonner

"You perform in a side-show, so my crow tells me," began Willy Nilly.

"That is so," said the giant, who indeed looked very enormous beside Willy Nilly. "We have not been doing well lately. The people do not think it is enough to look at a giant and a stuffed owl with two heads, and the owner of the show is thinking of giving it up before the season is over. That would be sad, very sad."

Glad It's Stuffed

"I'm glad the owl with two heads is a stuffed one," muttered Christopher under his breath,

"What did you say, crow?" asked the giant. "I thought," he continued without waiting for an answer, "that if your crow understands human talk as well as he seems to, we could have him in the show and advertise him as the crow who understands every word that is spoken to him."

"And I thought," put in Christopher, "that we could all go into the show and you, Willy Nilly, could talk to all of us and we'd all do as you said and we could be the Puddle Muddle family who understood all that the little man Willy Nilly said to them.

Explain, Please

"Explain that to the giant, please."

So Willy Nilly told the giant what Christopher had said, and the giant was delighted.

"It will save our show," he cried. "I know the owner will pay you well. I'll tell him about it as soon as I get back. We can begin billing the show as Willy-Nilly-a n d-his-Puddle-Muddlers-w h o know-all. Who are the others, by the way?"

SANTA ANA'S OPPORTUNITY

TWO weeks from tomorrow voters of the Santa Ana High school district will decide:

Whether Santa Ana is to keep step with the march of education.

Whether our children are to be housed in a modern, safe high school plant or sheltered in tents.

Whether Santa Ana shall accept an outright gift of $148,000 from the government or let some other community spend it.

Whether we get almost two dollars for every one we spend, or whether we make our own repairs and replacements with our own money.

Whether we are to have a modern school auditorium which can be used as a civic auditorium, or whether we hold our community meetings in the neighboring city of Orange.

Whether we permit homeseekers to locate in neighboring cities where modern educational centers are maintained, or whether we make it attractive for them and their children to establish themselves here.

Whether the seat of Orange county is to maintain its prestige or permit its people to cast envious eyes elsewhere.

Voters are called upon to make their own decision in the light of these possibilities. They will either accept or reject a bond issue of $180,000. The board of education has been promised $148,000 from the government if the bonds carry. (This is the public works 45-55 per cent plan.) This will complete the sum of $328,000 necessary to finish the high school plant and build an auditorium for Julia Lathrop Junior high, where pupils now have no assembly room and where they sometimes stand until they faint because there is no place to sit down.

The district, in short, must determine whether or not it is to obtain $328,000 and pay back $255,600, including interest, during the next 20 years.

An opportunity of this character may never come again. It seems to us that the plan stands the closest business scrutiny possible. Good business judgment would seem to indorse it, to say nothing of the cultural advancement in which we pride ourselves.

PERFECT PRODUCT OF HIS DAY

WIDELY and intimately known in Orange county, resident of Ventura county, one of the half dozen wealthiest men in America, has passed to his final reward at the age of 79 years. Edward L. Doheny was a most typical representative of some of the least admirable as well as some of the most admirable qualities of what probably is a vanishing race, namely, the ultra-successful fortune-builders of our resources-exploiting era.

We all pretty much agree, in light of what the last 10 years has taught us, that any individual who piled up an ownership valued at scores of millions in Mexican and American oil properties did it, necessarily, in disregard of business ethics as we now recognize them, in disregard often of the rights of others, in disregard of the public welfare.

Such a fortune arose out of a fang-and-claw struggle, a ruthless, acquisitive, driving mania for power and pelf, a taking of God-created wealth wherever and however it could be had. In Mr. Doheny's particular case, a major bribery scandal of our republic marked one step of his rise to the top of the pyramid.

With it all, he was a kindly man in his personal relationships, democratic and generous. In his way, he was public spirited, as many benefactions testify. We know of many of his old-time associates who swear by him as they would swear by a biblical character. The ruthless and unethical acts through which his fortune was multiplied they attribute to bad advice and persuasion of his business lieutenants rather than to deliberate steps of his own volition. They report he was always loyal to his friends and thoughtful for their welfare. The recent pitiful plight of his one-time desert buddy and aide, Albert B. Fall, in facing eviction from his home ranch on foreclosure of a mortgage held by one of Fall's corporations, they declare, is a case in point, Doheny, according to their version, lingering in his last illness and not being aware of what was going on at Tres Ritos rancho. If hardness of heart was shown the one-time secretary of interior who lost position and honor because of a little black bag, it was hardness of heart by these same advisors and not by Doheny himself, these friends steadfastly maintain.

In all these traits and in all the means by which he created his empire of oil, Edward L. Doheny was the perfect product of his period—a period which is gone or, at least, going, we hope, forever.

NERTS!

ALL the wise observers tell us that, if Mussolini starts his attack on Ethiopia, sooner or later this country is going to face the danger of being dragged into the general war which will result.

The pull may come from Mussolini, it may come from Haile Selassie, in a hidden way from the munitions makers, from ship owners, from sappy or scheming American or European diplomats, from innocent American farmers craving a new market, from some hysterical newspaper publisher, from any one of a thousand sources, or from a considerable combination of them.

The Journal suggests an answer to make, when this demand comes, to whomever makes it. It is not an elegant answer, though it is typically American, and it is not in terms which, ordinarily, we like to use or hear anybody else use. But on such an occasion it's a good answer.

The answer we suggest making is: "Nerts!"

Nerts to you, Mussolini! Nerts to you, Selassie! Nerts to you, ammunition makers and other desirous profiteers! NERTS!

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

Jascha Heifetz has attained the the peak of his musical career and is likely to stay there for a number of years. His astonishing draw at the Stadium concerts some weeks ago surpassed any event ever held there. For two successive evenings his audiences numbered more than 16,000 each.

O. O. McIntyre

The vast gatherings that heard his concertos with the Philharmonic realized they were hearing an artist who is neck and neck with Kreisler as the greatest violinists of their day. The magnificent silences followed by outbursts of cheering formed a dramatic emotional contrast.

Since Heifetz came to America a boy prodigy, he has grown steadily in the esteem of music lovers and critics. The past few years—perhaps since his marriage to Florence Vidor, the movie star—have brought forth increasing "heart," beauty and fire to his playing. Doubtless he is now at the top.

The violinist is still in his early 30's and has two lovely children, a boy and girl. When he is not on tour divides his time between Balboa, Calif., and a Park avenue penthouse and plays in all corners of the globe. Added to his genius is a keen sense of humor.

Fifty-second street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, continues to be the most astonishing restaurant block New York has ever known. In a mushroom growth, it has in a two-year stretch added 18 eating places to the block's pioneers—Tony's and No. 21. Many are open-fronted with sidewalk tables. And quite a number prosper solely on overflow trade. The next block east is also becoming cafe conscious and six Frenchified places have opened.

I hear Will Rogers, so fidgety on terra firma, was as composed as a statue, flying. It's the only way he found to relax. He did not even chew gum. Also he was without slightest flying fear, being somewhat a fatalist. The thing that worried him most in air thravels was his daily newspaper dispatch. He was not satisfied unless he delivered the piece, country boy style, to a telegraph office in person. Often he scribbled it on an old envelope.

Western North Carolina, a correspondent reveals, leads in outlandish names for little out-of-the-way places. Among them: Rip Shin Hollow, Dog Hobble Ridge, Frog Level, No Business Creek, Buzzard Roost, Skull Knob, Grinning Eye, Burnt Cabin Branch and Sway Back Hill.

Henry Mencken, so far as I know, has been the only campaigner against authors and publishers who dish out books without index. His fulminations against indexless volumes have done much to promote their inclusion the past few years. He believes any book that carries more than 15 names of actual people should list them alphabetically in the back.

* * *

Incidentally, Mencken's endorsement over a decade has been an enormous factor in sales of books. Even when his praise was confined to the limited circulation of the American Mercury it resulted in a word of mouth spread that often fostered best sellers. He was first to forecast the popularity of Sinclair Lewis. He saw talent in the first crude efforts of Jim Tulley, the life termer Ernest Booth and many others. Despite omnivorous reading, he reads slowly and often when a volume takes his eye will re-read several times before going on to another.

What the newspaper editorial room knows as The Lobster Trick is perhaps the profession's most inglorious post and yet in ways vastly important. The origin of the term is vague and has many versions but is descriptive of the watchman on guard, as a rule, from 1 a. m. until the arrival of the regular morning staff. The man on the Lobster Trick is often a one man editorial force, executing a score of different tasks. If a cataclysmic story breaks he is the general in command, routing the various departments and starting the first motions that in a short time will have the presses awhirr with extra editions. Sometimes he is one who has served in the highest posts at home and abroad but on the down grade prefers anonymity of the Lobster Trick.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Colonel Frank Knox's campaign for the republican presidential campaign has reached the contribution-seeking stage. Letters have been received in Washington from friends of the Chicago newspaper publisher, asking their friends to help finance his drive.

Considered most significant is the fact that the senders are known Hooverites.

The existence of a tie-up between Knox and Hoover has been strongly suspected for some time, especially since the Chicagoan visited the former President in his home in Palo Alto.

Just before congress adjourned, a story went around the senate republican cloakroom that at this Palo Alto meeting Hoover agreed to throw his support to Knox, in exchange for a promise to have the naming of two members of Knox's cabinet if elected—secretary of state and secretary of the treasury.

The name of Ogden L. Mills, strong-man of the Hoover regime, was associated with the treasury post.

CLERICAL ERRORS

THE other day Brain Truster Ben Cohen received a formal invitation to become a member of the violently anti-administration American Liberty league.

Among those who extended the invitation were Irenee DuPont, John J. Raskob, James W. Wadsworth, wealthy republican representative from New York, and John W. Davis, J. P. Morgan & Co. attorney.

Most of Cohen's time in the last two years has been spent in molding legislation aimed against these gentlemen.

The story now going the rounds that Marvin McIntyre, cadaverous and urbane guardian of the presidential portal, is about to lose his job, probably is wet.

Roosevelt seldom fires anyone, though he has a habit of putting them in such uncomfortable spots that they are glad to ease quietly out of the picture. That may be the reason Mac did not accompany the President on his trip to Hyde Park.

In this particular case, however, it will take a lot of easing to shunt McIntyre to the sidelines.

Mrs. Roosevelt made some gentle hints in that direction. So also did daughter Anna Roosevelt Boettiger. But it did no good.

At heart the President is rather fond of his emaciated secretary. They used to know each other back in the days when Roosevelt was a dashing young assistant secretary of the navy and Mac, as press relations officer, splashed his exploits all over the front page.

And it is a fact that once the President forms a genuine friendship he does not easily relinquish it.

* * *

LOBBY ALIBI

AFTER Mac was found at the sensational cocktail party in the room of the chief lobbyist of Associated Gas and Electric, the alibi was spread that getting the lowdown from lobbyists is one of Mac's duties for the President.

This is a long stretch of the imagination. The truth is that Mac is a convivial soul who hates to refuse any invitation which includes old bourbon, a good dinner and company of about his own intellectual level.

Mac's stomach is notorius. Some say it is made of the next thing to cast iron. He can consume more, and turn up for work fresher than almost any other official in the capital. Many a lobbyist has thought he could drink Mac down.

But none succeeded.

However, it is doubtful whether Mac is able to give his chief in the White House much lobbying lowdown. Probably they get much more Presidential lowdown from him.

SILENT LETTERS

FERA'S Bruce McClure doesn't let a letter from a "big shot" upset him any more.

When he first became secretary to federal relief, he was given a file of letters to answer. Important letters, from governors and members of congress. Conscientiously, Bruce stayed late into the night sorting the letters, getting ready to dictate. He put some in piles on his desk, others in piles on various waste baskets about the room.

When he came to work again in the morning, he found the room had been cleaned and the letters destroyed.

He was dismayed, horrified. He was positive he would be fired.

But days passed and nothing happened. Nothing ever happened. He never heard from any of the letter writers.

That experience gave McClure an idea. Silent treatment, he says, settles many an issue.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Futile Diplomacy—Isolate the Dictators

The professional fixers at Geneva are running around trying to steady the tottering league. They hastily put a prop under this corner and a brace under that tilting wall. But their efforts are more than wasted when the Italian dictator stamps his foot and blows his lusty blasts.

Dictators like dramatics. Their own meteoric rise to power is lurid with drama. Their audacity, their presumption, their unmitigated gall are filled with sudden action, spurts of energy, flashes of genius, and blare of trumpets. They are actors of supreme ability, with an uncanny knack of covering themselves with effulgent glory. They depend on effects produced, on keeping the populace guessing what's coming next, and of pulling new tricks out of the bag.

* * *

When their dexterity declines they are well on the way to oblivion. Napoleon's star set more rapidly than it climbed. Sliding down hill is easier than going up in low gear.

Napoleon reached dizzy heights in 1805 when elaborate preparations were made for him to assume imperial power. All the glitter of France centered in Notre Dame cathedral. The Corsican adventurer kneeled before the Pope, but his eyes and brain were working. Snatching the crown from the Pope's hand he placed it on his own head, proclaiming himself emperor and then crowned Josephine as empress. Dictators do such things. Mussolini seizes the show at Geneva and turns it to his own purposes, making it all a one-ring circus.

* * *

Nobody expected the Geneva conference to allay the war fever in Italy. Dictators don't fear weak protests and gentle slaps on the wrist. Mailed fists know nothing of softness and decency. Il Duce's delegate condemned Ethiopia in violent language, demanding its expulsion from the league because it is unfit for civilized nations to associate with it. When Ethiopia's spokesman, in mild terms, mentioned the universal militarization of Italy, of children wearing gas-masks and goose-stepping to martial music, Mussolini's henchmen shouted that such language was "defamatory and insulting" and rushed from the room. The Italian delegation withdrew and hurried to telephones to get further instructions from their Roman master.

* * *

And so the matter bubbles at present. Dictators are always getting "insulted" and rush to sabre-rattling to scare their insultors. There can be no assurance of peace with such irresponsible megalomanics in power. Complete and permanent severance of all dealings with him is the only sane method to pursue. Isolation is one thing that dictators can not stand. Thrown back upon their own people they soon wear out their welcome.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

My interviews today persistently followed the Louisiana tragedy. Try as I did to divert the conversation and get a locale, the subject reverted to Huey Long. In the final analysis it was the opinion that the position of a dictator is always precarious, and a few of my friends insisted on going back to that little affair Caesar had with Brutus, to prove their contention.

When Iowa was a prairie state—that was before Henry Ford took possession—Nick and Skribbles occupied the same newspaper office, but in separate departments. That's why we are both alive. But this paragraph is probably too personal to interest many readers, so as the kids say—let's skip it.
